LLL guards link deaths to toxins at test site

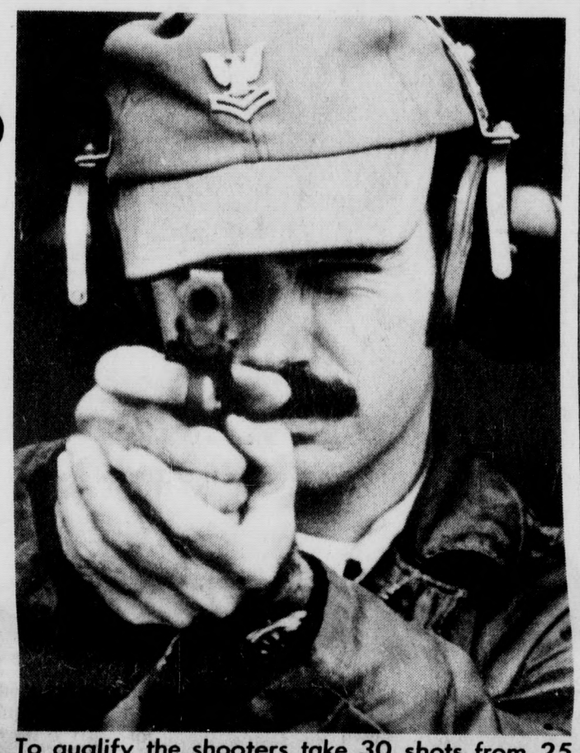
The crackle of gunfire picks up at Camp Parks

Valley residents near Camp Parks may hear shots from the camp firing range more often for the next two months while personnel from the Coast Guard's Alameda Training Center work to meet their weapons qualification requirements. The Coast Guard also uses the camp regularly for recruit weapons training during their eight week training program.

Yesterday was pistol qualifying for 35 personnel and two recruits. Qualifying with the .45 caliber automatic and M-16 rifle is required only once in five years for most active personnel, according to gunnery instructor CWO Carl H. Olsen.

"In the whole Coast Guard only about 60 per cent of the persons who use the pistol actually qualify with it and I'd say this holds true for all the services," Olsen said.

The minimum score for pistol qualifying is 165 points out of 300 which earns the grade of marksman. 200 points are needed for sharpshooter and 225 points for expert. The shooters are scored on 30 shots from 25 yards, each with a maximum value of ten points. The familiar bullseye is gone; targets today have only faint rings to separate the scoring areas.



To qualify the shooters take 30 shots from 25 yards worth a maximum of 300 points.

Lab official says there's no danger

Several radioactive or toxic substances released during years of explosives testing at Site 300 near Livermore are suspected by some security officers there of causing illness or death to members of their ranks.

A group of Protective Service Officers (PSOs) stationed at the facility says that three Site 300 employes, including one PSO, have undergone cancer operations within the last six weeks. They suspect that quantities of uranium, thorium and beryllium released during explosives tests have accumulated in the ground and are being inhaled by PSOs who must guard the bomb for hours prior to detonation.

The Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, which utilizes Site 300 in the Altamont Hills as an explosives testing facility, says that all explosivs experiments are carefully reviewed to ensure the safety of all its personnel.

- The Lab said that radioactive and toxic materials, such as uranium and beryllium, "may become locally airborne as a result of explosives experiments."

Lab spokesman Jeff Garberson said one non-security employe "may have received an overexposure to beryllium in the early 1960s" but was hospitalized and treated. That employe is now "healthy and productive," Garberson said.

A veteran PSO stationed at Site 300 said seven PSOs had died from diseases with symptoms similar to beryllium poisoning since 1961. At least 10 other men in the PSO force have contracted Valley Fever while at the site, "a much higher rate" than that of other Site 300 workers, he claims.

Jim Albert, (in chair) flips Tim Merrill

Self defense

Blue belt who won't take it sitting down

The attack on Jim Albert, a paraplegic, appeared incredibly cruel.

Approaching from behind, a man suddenly tipped Albert's wheelchair forward, dumping him out of the chair. The attacker then moved in on his prey, now sprawled on the ground

An easy mark for the mugger? Hardly.

Albert turned a somersault when thrown from his wheelchair, pulled his feet together, crossed his legs and sat erect on the ground. When the man attacked, Albert threw him to the ground with one arm and immobilized him there with a shoulder-wrenching arm twist.

"If he had moved, his shoulder would have been dislocated," Albert said.

Though Albert may be confined to a wheelchair (when not getting attacked, that is), he is certainly not handicapped when it comes to self-defense. After 18 months of leisure-time study, he has earned a blue belt in the Japanese martial art of jujitsu.

Unification study

Once more for SR schools?

A new Committee on School District Organization will be formed in Contra Costa County to launch yet another study on organization of schools in the Walnut Creek area.

Two previous efforts by Walnut Creek schools to unify neighboring school districts, including a northern portion of the San Ramon Valley Unified School District, have been turned back.

County counsel for Contra Costa County Wednesday night said state law mandates a new study. It was recommended to the board that a new master plan for Contra Costa County schools be developed and, in that regard, the staff was directed to request $10,000 in funding from the county Board of Supervisors for the study.

The new 11-person committee will be selected by school boards of the 18 districts in the county. San Ramon's school board would participate in the selection process, assisting in the naming of tw persons from Eric Hasseltine's 5th Supervisorial District.

San Ramon, along with the Lafayette and Acalanes districts, vehemently opposed previous Walnut Creek efforts to annex parts of their respective districts. Walnut Creek proposed to unify a section that includes Alamo School.

The state Board of Education, at a hearing in early summer in San Jose, voted down the unification move but suggested the Walnut Creek district consider a different organizational plan.

I-580 detour in west lanes now in effect

DUBLIN — Westbound traffic on Interstate 580 at Foothill-San Ramon roads interchange will be taking a slight detour for about a month.

The state Division of Highways is diverting traffic from the westbound freeway lanes onto a collector road where it now merges with on-coming traffic from Foothill and San Ramon roads.

When the work is completed on the new stretch of Dublin Canyon freeway the Foothill-San Ramon traffic will once again enter onto a separate lane instead of merging. The freeway is expected to reopen in about a month.

Non-conforming sign spurs threat

PLEASANTON — The city attorney's office has threatened the owner of The Woodwork, an unfinished furniture shop on Main Street, with "criminal prosecution" if he fails to change his sign and meet city hall dictums.

Chris Kudriavsteff, who lost before both city planning commissioners and city council, has been "requested" to meet with deputy city attorney Harvey Levine at 10 a.m. Sept. 21 to iron out details of The Woodwork's wayward sign.

Kudriavsteff's antique white letters are 14-inches tall, and city hall has ruled they must be no more than 10-inches in height. City planners, bolstered by planning commissioners and city council, say the sign is "awkward and unbalanced" when weighed against a Columbus Realty sign on the opposite side of the shingled parapet.

The sign was ordered removed by Sept. 7.

"I think the whole thing is ridiculous," Kudriavsteff said. "I've got a lot of support from people in town, but I need more."

He's started a petition and hopes people will bombard Levine's office with calls.

"It's crazy, but I'm going to fight it," he said. He'll proceed without a lawyer "as far as I can go."

Victory in traffic fight

SAN RAMON — Stop signs along Broadmoor Drive that will safeguard childrens will soon be put up in San Ramon since the Contra Costa County Department of Public Works responded to a plea from residents of that community.

Broadmoor Drive has earned a reputation for reckless, speeding drivers traveling along its 2.2 mile stretch. Residents organized a group called Save Our Children Association to seek official help. The San Ramon Homeowners Association (SRHA) gave SOCA full support. During a public forum Wednesday night, SOCA formally dissolved and SRHA assumed responsibility to carry on the project for safety.

The county agreed to supply necessary stop signs, crosswalks, speed limit signs and make further traffic surveys of the entire San Ramon community.

San Ramon wins better traffic pledge

SAN RAMON — A victory for better traffic control on Broadmoor Drive was won by the Save Our Children Association (SOCA) and the San Ramon Homeowners Association (SRHA) from the Contra Costa County Department of Public Works.

Broadmoor Drive in San Ramon has been notorious for having more than its share of reckless, speeding drivers. SOCA was formed by people living along or near Broadmoor Drive in an effort to get better traffic controls that would protect their childrens' safety. Fred and Pat Rodrigues and Gary and Connie Horstkorta of San Ramon organized SOCA. All live along Broadmoor Drive. They gained full support of SRHA members.

During a public forum sponsored by SOCA and SRHA at California High School in San Ramon Wednesday night, county public works officials, Leroy Vukad and Mark Kermit, said the county would comply with SOCA and SRHA requests.

Vukad is a county traffic engineer in the transportation division of public works. Kermit is in the division of transportation and roads.

At the beginning of the forum, SOCA Chairman Rodrigues formally dissolved SOCA and SRHA accepted the responsibility of continuing the effort to protect San Ramon's children.

One of the requests was to get ground-mounted stop signs put up at the intersections of Broadmoor Drive and South Bellemeade Drive, Northland Avenue and Westchester Drive.

Vukad said the county would put up the stop signs on a six-month trial basis. He contended stop signs are not the answer for slowing down reckless, speeding drivers.

SOCA members told Vukad their primary concern in seeking better traffic control was to get crossing points that will protect pedestrian safety; especially children going to and from school.

At the same intersections, crosswalks were asked for. Vukad said the crosswalk lines would have to be painted white since the walk w ocations were not close enough to schools to warrant lines being painted yellow.

Vukad agreed to put up more 25-mile-an-hour speed limit signs along the 2.2 mile stretch of Broadmoor Drive. There are three such signs now.

He said the county would comply with a request to make a further traffic study of the entire community of San Ramon.

An earlier transportation department survey showed an average speed of 36 miles per hour on Broadmoor Drive plus a high average of 48 miles per hour.

Other officials attending the forum were Lieutenant Orval Ellis of the California Highway Patrol; Sergeant Byron Hisey, Contra Costa County Sheriff's Department; Ernie Berger, California High School Principal; Pat Croak, student body president at California High School; Mike Wahlig, SRHA director; Dr. James Solberg, Assistant Superintendent of the San Ramon Valley Unified School District and Dave Stegman, SRHA vice-president. The law enforcement and education officials agreed to promote safety education.

Suggestions from the audience of 130 ranged from taking down traffic offenders' license numbers, putting speed bumps or dips along Broadmoor Drive, disc bumps having San Ramon contract for its own police force to having paid crossing guards at vital intersections.

San Ramon residents have banded together to get a better traffic control system that will protect children; especially as youngsters go to and from school.

Tax relief bill stalls as solons debate

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A $4.2-billion tax relief plan stalled on an early ballot in the state Senate Thursday after foes charged the bill provides "no meaningful relief, no meaningful limits on local or state government."

The first Senate roll call was 17-14, 10 votes short of the required two-thirds margin. Supporters of the tax measure held the roll open to round up extra votes or persuade members to switch votes.

But two senators whose support was regarded as essential to passage of the tax bill — Republican Milton Marks of SanFrancisco and Democrat Walter Stiern of Bakersfield — both voted no and Marks labeled the bill "totally inadequate."

The Assembly was also slated to vote on the bill sometime before the midnight Thursday deadline for adjournment of the California Legislature's 1977 session.

A few hours before the Senate vote, backers of the tax bill reinstated $100 million in renter benefits deleted from the bill in negotiations Wednesday.

Criticism of the tax plan came from spokesmen for renters, homeowners and business — all objecting to different provisions.

"There's no meaningful relief, no meaningful limits on local or state government — just a cosmetic little rebate," said Sen. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach.

But Sen. John Holmdahl, D-Castro Valley, who chaired the committee which wrote the final version of the bill, described it as a compromise which is "the best we can get."

The measure's chief critic, Sen. George Deukmejian of Long Beach, Republican leader in the upper house, said that, by his estimates, the measure would impose $3.1 billion in new taxes over the next five years and run an additional deficit of $1.5 billion. The Brown administration contends there would be no deficit.

"This package is not in balance ... and it's not tax relief," Deukmejian said.

But Democratic floor leader David Roberti of Los Angeles attacked Marks, Carpenter and Deukmejian as "kamikazes of the Republican party" and said Republicans were opposing the bill for political reasons without offering alternatives.

Lab guards blame toxic air in deaths

"Since 1961, out of an average force of approximately 30 PSOs at Site 300, eight men have died while on duty status," the Lab employe said. "Some have died shortly after quitting. One man is now convalescing after surgery for cancer; his legs are paralyzed and he is receiving radiation treatment for lung tratment at Oak Knoll Hospital" in Oakland.

"Outside of one man who died from Valley Fever, the chief cause of death has been respiratory or cancer of the lungs," the PSO claimed.

Surface gravel near the site's seven different firing points is periodically removed to on-site burial pits and replaced. The PSOs claim that radioactive materials are spread over a wider area than is covered by the gravel 'fter a test blast and accumulate in the ground.

PSOs are assigned to guard the test site and bomb package for hours prior to the scheduled blast against the threat of theft of sabotage.

The security guards say they are offered no protective clothing while on duty and take their uniforms home to be cleaned, exposing their families to any eontaminants present. Janitors assigned to wash down the firing point following a test blast are issued protective clothing, they said.

Garberson said PSOs sometimes receive coveralls to protect their uniforms against dirt. Occasionally they are issued plastic shoe covers "to prevent tracking possible contaminants that are tchnically detectable but that offer no health effect." The shoe covers are removed on site.

No toxic radioactive materials in excess of federally allowable standards has ever occurred at Site 300, Garbersons said.

"The public is generally far removed from Site 300 boundaries, but even at the boundary there is no significant hazard," Garberson stated.

"No Site 300 personnel at all have died from sickness contracted at Site 300," Garberson said. Several employes had contracted Valley Fever, "a fungus - related disease that is endemic to California's ntire Central Valley and the southwestern United States; it is unrelated to Site 300 activities per se," he added.

Site 300 has been used as a high-explosives test area since it was acquired in 1955.

Consumers don't gripe to city

OAKLAND — Alameda County's Consumer Affairs Commission is polling cities to see if and how they handle consumer complaints.

In the Valley's two cities, the answer will be "infrequently and with referrals to other agencies."

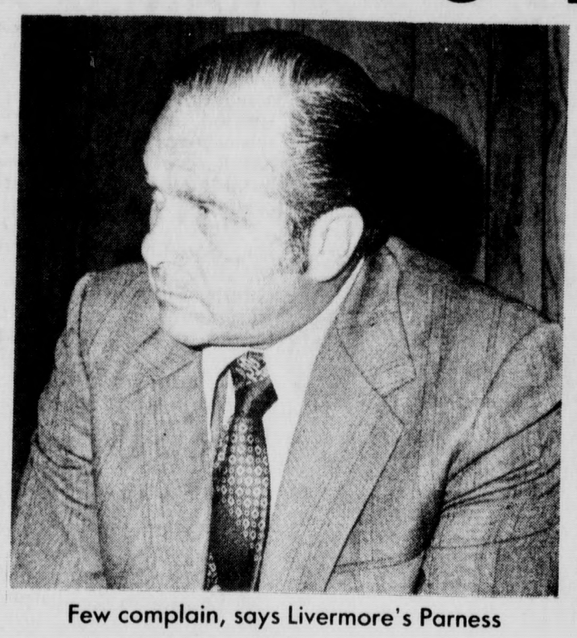
"We don't get that many complaints," said Assistant to the City Manager Jim Walker in Pleasanton. "In the ten years I've been here, I've had only two."

The complainers thought the city should not issue a business license to the merchants in question, but business licenses exist only to give revenue to cities. They are not a policing device.

A few years ago, citizens did complain to the city building inspection department about alleged shoddy workmanship in homes in Val Vista and Del Prado. The city couldn't do anything but inspect the homes; homeowners sought redress through the state board of contractors which licenses contractors.

The city gets a few complaints about the quality of cable television service in the city, but that's because the city awards the franchise, in this case to TeleVue Systems. Walker notes the complaints since they figure in citizen communications to the council on rare occassions, notably when TeleVue wants a rate increase.

Walker may have handled a couple of house construction complaints himself, things like calling the builder and saying, "Fix that residents's shower."



Few complain, says Livermore's Parness

He didn't have any authority to get on the builder; he was just acting like any responsible person in a small town government.

In Livermore, City Manager Bill Parness said his city gets few complaints about business practices or defective materials. The few are passed on to the city's Chamber of Commerce.

If any fraud is involved, Livermore does like Pleasanton and passes it on to the Alameda County District Attorney's consumer fraud division.

Pleasanton and Livermore license door - to - door solicitors and require bonding if any in - advance cash is to be taken from a customer for a sale.

Solicitors for charitable organizations must be licensed, too, but their permits are fee - exempt.

Pleasanton's Acting Police Chief, Ron Nelson, recalls very few consumer fraud complaints in his city. The most recent, which the police investigated upon request of the Chamber of Commerce, dealt with magazine subscription sales and the gendarmes discovered the firm was on the up and up.

Someone allegedly was calling on the phone and saying that the conversation had been taped and it was a "legal document". It got in the papers, but the complainer to the Chamber was anonymous and the police could not get any details from the alleged "victim". It may even have been a put - on, said Nelson.

Pleasanton says no to package sewer plants

PLEASANTON — Package sewage treatment plants for home devlopments are an absolute no-no, city council ruled this week.

And they'll forward that opinion to Alameda County Planning Commissioners, who are considering a policy position for county supervisors.

City council accepted three of its staff's four recommendations in deciding against the mini-sewage plants.

They scotched staff's suggestion that package plants be considered for existing residential developments to correct water pollution problems where connection to an existing system is not a cost effective solution.

That provision would have covered the Happey Valley - Alisal area south of the city.

"It would guarantee that Happy Valley would never, never annex to the city," said councilwoman Joyce LeClaire.

Generally, she said "package plants simply do not have a good track record. The city would be stuck with it if it failed."

All private plants must have a governmental overseer before they can garner state approval for construction.

To councilman Bill Herlihy it is a question of Harlan Geldermanns "New Town," the controversial 45,000 population community the Danville developer would build in the Las Positas Valley north of Livermore.

"We should be emphatic," said Herlihy. "Let's face it. I think we're talking about New Town."

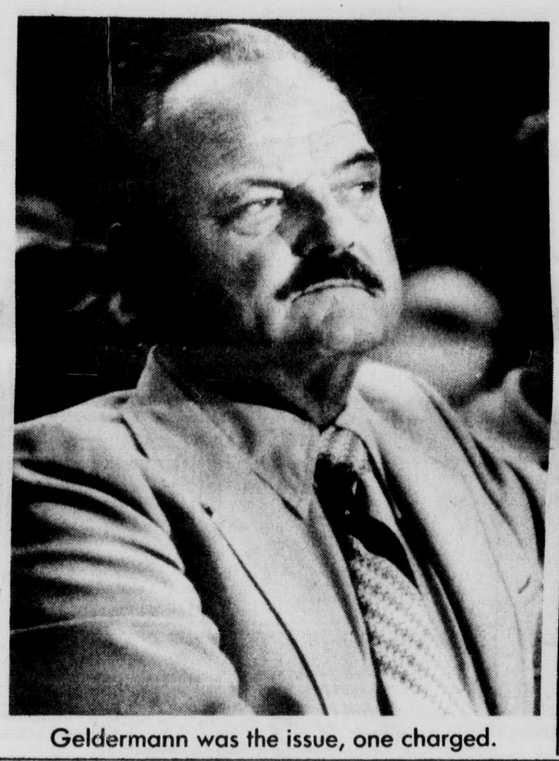
Geldermann, facing stiff opposition from regional agencies who must sanction sewer grants for his venture, could turn to package plants to develop his New Town.

LeClaire also predicted "many problems" for the city with William Apperson's proposed dude ranch on the Apperson ranch south of the city.

Pleasanton has signed on as the "overseer" to Apperson's proposed private treatment plant. LeClaire has consistently been opposed to the city's role.

The city will tell county planning officials that the plants should not be allowed for any new residential developments; that the mini-systems "may be considered" for new commercial or industrial developments; and that septic tanks in unincorporated areas surrounding the city should follow city established regulations.

They currently are banned.



Geldermann was the issue, one charged.

Pay hikes for legal staff

PLEASANTON — The city's legal staff won raises from city council this week, thus leaving only fire fighters without a pay agreement this year.

City attorney Ken Scheidig will get $32,000 per year, retroactively effective July 1.

His assistant, two-year veteran Harvey Levine, will be paid $21,421 per year. His raise covers both "cost of living" and a merit increase "for the excellent job which he has performed in the past," according to Scheidig's recommendation.

Legal secretary Mary Gettman has been boosted to a legal assistant with a raise to $16,176 per year.

City council unanimously approved the pay hikes, adding praise for Scheidig's past performance.

The new pay package also will drop statewide election days from the legal staff's list of holidays. Instead, each employe will get one "floating" holiday each year.

Planners want growth guide tucked in GP

PLEASANTON — City planning commissioners want the controversial Growth Management Plan tucked into the overall general plan for Pleasanton, they ruled this week.

Their recommendation now goes to city council.

But the even more hotly contested "Residential allocation Board" ordinance, the bible by which evelopers would be awarded points and work their way up a competitive building permit list, will be debated again next week at a special meeting.

Only planning commissioner Bill Jamieson voted against making the Growth Management Plan an element of the city's general plan. He joined other commissioners in accepting a negative Environmental Impact Report on the tome, but offered no reasons for rebuffing it as a general plan element.

If city council accepts its commission's recommendation, state law will hold the city to working within the dictums of the new general plan element.

Meanwhile, city attorney Ken Scheidig offered a path to iron out differences between the proposed ordinance and the infamous 1972 sewer agreement.

He wants the city to establish separate priority lists for the "Sunol" and Valley Community Services District sewage areas.

Developers who are a party to the 1972 settlement would get top priority on the VCSD list, while other builders would vie for positions on the Sunol area list.

The separate lists and districts would be maintained after the Sunol Boulevard Sewage Treatment Plant is closed and its effluent pumped to the modern VCSD facility.

The overall Growth Management Plan drew support from the Pleasanton Housing Authority, and, again, rebuke by developers.

Chamber of commerce Industrial Development Committee chairman Jack Bras told commissioners, "If there's ever been a negative environmental impact statement that qualifies, this one's it."

The ordinance will run into trouble over a controversial section that allows developers to buy up to 25 points on a scale of 100 by contributing to the city's capital improvements or housing funds.

Plane crash

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — An Air Force plane slammed into a mountainside on a high security Army base, killing all 20 persons aboard when it exploded on impact a half mile from any bunker containing fissionable material, authorities said.

The four-engine plane crashed on Manzano Base, where nuclear weapons are stored, three minutes after its take off from Kirtland Air Force Base at 11:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Kirtland base operations confirmed there were no survivors.

His handicap can be an advantage in action

In his first competition ever, Albert recently outpointed eight non-handicapped contestants to win first place in his class in a regional tournament held in Salinas.

The attack described above was part of Albert's routine that impressed the judges.

A computer scientist at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, Albert learned of jujitsu from a co-worker, JoAnn Tobias. She and her husband Jim are both black-belt jujitsu experts and operate an evening jujitsu school in Livermore.

Mrs. Tobias said others studying the sport are usually more handicapped by their attitudes than Albert is limited by his physical condition.

"Jim has the self-discipline, patience and open mind that are required to learn jujitsu properly," she said.

In fact, Albert's physical handicap often gives him an advantage. The aggressor must bend over to approach Albert, whether he is in his wheelchair or sitting on the ground. The attacker is then off-balance and easier to throw. Though Albert had never participated in competitive athletics, he has enough upper body strength to throw a 200-pound man with one arm, a skill that usually takes several years for most persons to master. Most techniques are based on leverage and the structure of the body and require little muscle. Albert considers jujitsu an ideal self defense method for the physically handicapped who have use of their arms.

A few moves, of course, are impossible for Albert to accomplish and must be adapted.

"Obviously, I can't kick," said Albert, who was paralyzed from the waist down 10 years ago in a motorcycle accident. "So I change the kicks to punches and the leg throws to arm throws."

Jim Tobias has supervised the adaptions, which are acceptable for competition by the American Judo and Jujitsu Federation. Should more handicapped persons take up the sport, Mrs. Tobias said, more adaptions could be developed.

Jujitsu is different from competitive martial arts, such as karate and judo. The name means "gentle technique" in Japanese and the sport is defensive in nature. There is no free sparring in competitions. Each punch, block, throw, choke, or strangle, however, is designed to incapacitate or immobilize an attacker in one move.

"Each technique uses the first point of contact with the attacker for his own downfall," Albert said. "The first thing an attacker may do, for example, is to hit me. I then block the punch and quickly immobilize his arm. If the attacker resists this defense, I can twist his arm out of its socket or drive him headfirst to the pavement with little added effort on my part."

Albert emphasizes that the brutal extension of jujitsu defenses are used only as a last resort.

"A person will normally throw himself down to avoid the pain of a particular hold," Albert said. A wrist lock, for example, causes intense pain. Though it looks like Albert is merely shaking hands with his attacker, Albert's wrist lock quickly drops the aggressor to the ground.

Many jujitsu throws are designed so students can drive the attacker's head to the ground, if such crippling force is necessary. In practice, of course, the students acting as aggressors must learn to roll with the throw to avoid injury to themselves.

Learning to roll correctly, however, can be painful, as Albert found out early in his classes. The first time he tried to roll out of the wheelchair, he hit his head on the mat and suffered a mild concussion.

"Getting thrown from the wheelchair is actually safer than my rolling out by myself," Albert said. "The push gives me more momentum and makes the somersault easier."

Albert has mastered 20 escaped moves in earning the blue belt. He is now working on the next 20 escapes required for the green belt. Mastery of 200 escapes and countless variations is required for a black belt.

Self defense is not Albert's only free-time activity. He also enjoys playing piano, painting, swimming and racing his hot pink Porsche sports car.

Jamaicans Episcopal-Catholic

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — When the new Church of Reconciliation was dedicated near here Sept. 3, it marked a new, closer relationship for island Anglicans (Episcopalians) and Roman Catholics. It's a joint parish.

Located in Bridgeport, the ecumenical parish covers an area including some of Jamaica's poorest people. The parish is staffed by an Anglican priest and two Roman Catholic priests of the Atonement Friars.

One of them, the Rev. Martin Carter, says that while there are separate Anglican and Roman Catholic Masses, the combined parish opens a new stage in "cooperation and sharing" between the two denominations.

Christ in the Passover

LIVERMORE — On Sunday, Sept. 25, during the 10:45 a.m. worship hour, Valley Christian Church will present "Christ in the Passover." It will be a program by Jews for Jesus, an international organization recognizing Jesus as the Jewish Messiah.

The public is invited to attend free of charge to share with the members of Valley Christian Church during this presentation at 811 Marylin Ave.

A table is set with the traditional Jewish liturgical items including sample foods which are explained but not eaten. Members of Jews for Jesus have given this demonstration in more than a thousand churches.

Irishman speaks for Jesus Jews

LIVERMORE — The Rev. Larry Trummel of Vally Christian Church, 811 Marylin Ave., invites the public to hear Daniel Rigney speak for Jews for Jesus on Sept. 25 at 10:45 a.m.

Jews for Jesus is the fastest growing organization of its kind. Since their incorporation in 1973, they have established branch offices in four major cities, in addition to their headquarters in San Rafael

In this short time the original staff of eight has mushroomed to 60. What is a nice Irishman like Daniel Rigney doing in an organization like Jews for Jesus? "The answer is simple," says Rigney. "Since the gospel was originally brought to the Gentiles by Jewish believers, I feel it's time we Gentiles reciprocated. I believe that we owe a great debt to the Jewish people for their part in God's plan for the salvation of mankind. And working with Jews for Jesus has given me hundreds of opportunities to share the message of Jesus, the Jewish Messiah, in an innovative and highly effective way."

At the Jews for Jesus headquarters, Dan Rigney serves in the capacity of Adjutant Director of the organization. Aside from his daily evangelistic work, he assists Moishe Rosen in mangaging the ever-expanding ministry.

Dan Rigney and his wife, Arlene, are both graduates of Moody Bible Institute in Chicage, with majors in Jewish Studies. Shortly after graduating they enrolled in the missionary training program sponsored by American Board oF Missions to the Jews.

Rigney is of the opinion that Jewish interest in the person of Christ is increasing. "Wherever we go, we encounter Jewish believers who are eager to share their new found faith. While there is some opposition to Jews who believe in Jesus, we're discovering that there is a lot more genuine interest and curiosity among members of the Jewish community.

Joblessness called morally intolerable

WASHINGTON (AP) — The general secretary of the U.S. Catholic Conference, Bishop Thomas C. Kelly, says "the inability of our economy to provide sufficient jobs for our people is a serious national failing" and constitutes a major moral challenge to the country's leaders.

He told a meeting of the Full Employment Action Council that if the current high unemployment rates "were the result of forces beyond our control, it would be tragic enough," but "they result from inaction, apathy or attempts to control inflation through high joblessness" and are "morally intolerable."

St. Raymond's

In a Valley community that instills heavy emphasis on family and home, the dedication of a new church is not an uncommon event. We are well blessed on that score.

St. Raymond's in Dublin has a particular air of poignancy about it, however, partly because of its historic roots, more recently because of its exciting rebirth. It is that latter event which the parish, and the community, celebrate this Sunday.

The triumph of "New St. Raymond's" is one that will extend well beyond the Catholic faithful in Dublin. From the outset of that revived parish, ten years ago, in modest rental quarters, St. Raymond's has grown in step with the "New Dublin." Both are quite a story. Both reflect the determination of a "commuter community" to plant its roots, build a town, and build a great deal of pride while they're at it.

Dublin has emerged, there can be no doubt about it. The commerce is there, the people are there, the social and familial and political life abounds. And now thee is a fine new church on the hill to add to Dublin's crown ... a reminder of the settlement's century - old past, a tribute to its exciting future.

On Sunday, members of St. Raymond's Church will join with their pastor and their bishop in dedication of that handsome edifice. The rest of us will want to add our good wishes on this historic occasion.

Create a county

Disenchantment with local government prompts some among us to mount protests, writeletters to the newspapers or even circulate petitions. In Southern California, they are doing all those things, plus creating their own county.

Not in 70 years of "California tranquility" has there been anything like it. No less than eight secessionist movements are underway. As you might have guessed, Los Angeles County is the hotbed of that unrest.

Encouraged by liberal legislation which makes creation of your own county no less difficult than is now possible to incorporate your own city, secessionist movements are cropping up all over the southern state.

Which makes us ask, "Why bother?" Never more than a funnel through which state codes and state cash might pass to the people, county government has been bypassed in recent years by our swing toward regionalism ... agencies with broader but better defined powers, often embracing many counties, but answering to none of them.

One of the last vestiges of county power was in applying land - use codes to unincorporated lands; but even there, the legislature is close to establishing a State Land Use Commission that would pre - empt much of that county authority (and much of the local zoning authority, also).

County borders are often meaningless lines, doing little more than confuse the taxpaying property owner ... as witness the Dublin - San Ramon split. County supervisors are often out of step with the latest regional mandate ... as evidenced by those hearings over Geldermann's "New Town."

It is not certain now much longer county government can survive, or should survive. But it sure doesn't make sense to create any more of them than we already have.

Stamps wanted

Editor, The Times:

I am sorry to bother you with my letter, but you are the only one I can turn to for help, with hope you can help me.

I am 50 years old, married and have three children. Since 1963 I am sick with Multiple Sclerosis, my disability is now permanent and I will spend rest of my life in wheelchair or in bed, but with my wife's help wp go on living a busy and full life despite my handicap.

I have to spend most of my time indoors and to keep myself busy I am collecting stamps, but for me it is very hard to get any kind of stamps. To get stamps from other countries I write to Editors like yourself and ask for help, could you please print my appeal for stamps in your newspapers? I will be very grateful for your help, but I have nothing to give you in return just my thanks to you.

ERA defended

Editor, The Times:

Wow — the distortions Alice saw through the looking glass were nothing compared with Al Fisher's flawed perception of looking at E.R.A. though the wrong end of a telescope ... E.R.A. is not flawed, Mr. Fisher, for you printed the text of E.R.A. which I repeat. "Equality under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex." That merely states a very positive message — that each of us, every woman, every man, needs the Equal Rights Amendment to define, protect and expand individual rights. Even though the Constitution purports to guarantee individual rights, it is abundantly true that federal and state laws continue to be interpreted and enforced on sex-based discrimination.

Your diatribe of Bella Abzug and others supporting E.R.A. were petty ... do your homework on some of the "radical" others in support of E.R.A. ... League of Women Voters, the A.A.U.W., American Civil Liberties Union, National Women's Political Caucus ...

The byline "Focus/Threat to Family" is a myth supported by 14 per cent of Americans polled by Roper and was most concurrence among people over 60, the grade-school educated, conservatives and people in rural areas.

As a widow with three children in college, I can tell you I am not threatened by this proposed amendment to the Constitution. On the contrary, I feel it can bring only an improved dimension to my life, that of my children, and to all Americans and thereby better the conditions of life in America.

FOCUS/Public employees

Anti-strike bid

The hiring earlier this month of an executive director by Valley Uniserv, a uniting of teachers in four Valley districts, brings to mind the ballot initiative being spearheaded by two Southern California women.

Dolly Swift and Betty Cordoba and their Committee for Citizens Rights were initially brought to local readers' attention by The Times more than two months ago.

The Committee for Citizens Rights is gathering signatures to qualify an initiative titled "Prohibition of Strikes by Public Employees" on the June, 1978 ballot.

If passed by the voters (and that assumes 499,846 signatures are obtained to qualify an initiative), the initiative would outlaw five major activities:

— Strikes by any and all public employees would be unlawful.

— Binding arbitration would be prohibited.

— Forcing a public employee to join a union would be prohibited.

— The requirement that all public employees in a bargaining unit be represented by a single union would not be permitted.

— Use of dues, fee or other charges paid by public employees to an employee union for political purposes would be unlawful.

Such "activities" are at the heart of negotiations procedures now underway in school districts in the Valley and throughout the state.

Uniserv, as directed by Jacques Bernier, intends to organize teachers in the four districts (Amador, Murray, San Ramon, and Pleasanton) and help the respective negotiating teams with contract negotiations. This seemingly would put teachers in conflict with the proposed initiative But Mrs. Cordoba, a public school teacher in Los Angeles, says the initiative would not prevent public employees from joining unions of their choice and being represented in bargaining with public employers. She says it only precludes a union from forcing public employees to join as a condition of employment.

The pending conflict becomes apparent when Mrs. Cordoba mentions binding arbitration, a crucial point in almost all public school districts during the first year of collective bargaining.

The committee believes binding arbitration does not belong in the public sector. Rather, the initiative calls for conciliation and mediation procedures to be applied when an impasses in negotiations develops between the elected official (school board) and employee organization (California Teachers Association affiliate or American Federation of Teachers chapter).

All final decisions concerning conditions, compensation, hours and the rights and obligations of employees would be made by elected officials, according to basic philosophy of the committee.

"It is extremely important to keep these final decisions in the hands of elected officials," says Mrs. Cordoba.

None of the Valley district teachers in Uniserv received anything more than a form of binding arbitration last year. Murray teachers, for example, agreed to an advisory form of binding arbitration. But teachers in Pleasanton did not come to contractual agreement with the Pleasanton board.

San Ramon teacher representatives are presently in mediation with the district over a contract for 1977-78. Teachers in the latter district could be considered the most "militant" if for no other reason than the district has a sizable and vocal American Federation of Teachers chapter.

But size and militancy have little relationship to what ultimately must be accomplished at the bargaining table. The citizens group co-chaired by Cordoba and Swift would take away the most bargainable items. Their intent is understandable, as is the basic thrust of the CTA - dominated teacher units.

There must be a middle ground because the aims of the extreme factions are certainly not palatable to more than a minority of all concerned.

SENATE LEADER

Brown vs. press

Editor, The Times:

Public awareness of the operation of state government is vital. The media has been a strong constructive force in its demand for the public's "right to know."

When Governor Brown ran for office he promised openness in government. However, if the accompanying articles by top newspaper reporters have any validity, the media can be faulted for not aggressively demanding more openness by Governor Jerry Brown on the issues of the day.

The enclosed article by Los Angeles Times reporter Kenneth Reich makes the notable point that the "media was hoodwinked" by the Governor in 1974, successfully and purposefully. Any reliable judge of Governor Brown's present tactics will tell you he is making a repeat performance today.

He has held no formal news conferences in Sacramento since February 3. The Capitol Press Corps are knowledgeable individuals who know what and when to ask the hard questions. But how can they ask those penetrating questions when they have to catch the Governor on the run in a hallway or an elevator?

The Governor recognizes that when a group of tough reporters zero in on a subject in a general news conference, they won't be parried off by a flip or evasive reply.

The Governor is constantly staging media events around the State and satisfying local press inquiries, but by adopting that tactic he can avoid the real rough questions from reporters who are more familiar with the issues and know how our political world works.

One of the major strengths of our two-party system of government is the ability and the responsibility of the minority party to draw attention to the shortcomings of the party in power. In writing to you, I am attempting to carry out that responsibility by inviting your attention to this situation and with the hope that you will demand that the Governor face up to hard-nosed questioning in full-blown regular news conferences.

Just think of the screaming if former Governor Ronald Reagan had not held a formal news conference from February through August.

George Deukmejian

EARL WATERS

Hogtied

Forces within the state's university system are at work to destroy the wheel! Call that an exaggeration if you will but it is certainly clear that there is an active effort being made to halt the University of California from developing any improvements to the wheel. At least insofar as its use in agriculture.

This foolishness started with a "study" by a "task force" of the Associated Students at UC Davis. It is their contention that UC research leading to the development of agricultural efficiency through mechanization is to blame for the displacement of thousands of farm workers. Their demand is that social impact statements be required before authorization of any farm mechanical research project. The obvious aim is to smother future research in a mass of red tape.

If the student activists' sophmoric notions has been dealt-with intelligently, they would have been treated to some lectures on the facts of life and hopefully pursuaded as to the errors in their thinking. Unfortunately, abetted by Governor Jerry Brown, both in his role as an ex officio regent and in his appointment of state labor chief Jack Henning as a new regent, the subject is being given serious consideration at regent meetings.

Henning lost no time in pushing the issue, raising the question at his very first attendance of a regents' meeting. It can be expected the matter will continue to consume time at future regent assemblies.

The alarm of those who would hamstring the university's ability to aid in improving agricultural efficiency through development of labor saving machines is based upon the false premise that mechanization adversely affects the labor market.

While it is true that conversion to machinery displaces workers it is indisputable that mechanization, in the overall, creates more new jobs than it displaces. Would the automobile industry employ the hundreds of thousands it does if Henry Ford hadn't mechanized production? His innovations not only put America on wheels by reducing the costs of auto manufacture to a number the masses could afford but created millions of new jobs in ancillary industries as a result. Anyone who has studied the history of the United States knows that it has been mechanization which has made this the greatest industrial nation in the world. And mechanization has enabled the farmers to outproduce all other nations, thus sustaining not only this country but serving as a breadbasket around the globe.

Those who would hogtie university research on projects to further improvp agricultural efficiency should get their heads on straight. Agriculture doesn't need the university but everyone needs agriculture. The cotton gin, the tractor, the harvester and most of the other labor saving devices which have contributed to the nation's farming ability were not spawned in university laboratories. And private enterprise will continue to find new devices regardless of whether it is assisted by the university or not. If those brains at the university are halted in research efforts which are needed by agriculture, private enterprise will simply hire them and thus deprive the university of their services in educating many students.

But the question is why should they be halted? Agriculture long has been the state's number one industry and the farmers contribute to the support of the university as much as anyone else. Why, then, shouldn't they be entitled to its services.

round the town

Packaging The News, Part II.

In a previous report, readers were enlightened as to the extent television news commentators (they are all commentators) now go in their determination to bring viewers the best possible news package.

But I would not want to leave you with the impression that the print media is lagging in the art of "news and how to wrap it."

I have in hand the Associated Press Stylebook and Libel Manual. An impressive publication. Bound in loose - leaf style so that we might remove old pages and insert new ones as the mood and the mod of print news changes. We reporters learn that the one constant in news writing is change.

Associated Press and United Press and other leaders in word dissemination feel responsible for guiding us poor wordsmiths in the style, and the letter, of what we give our readers. If you think some idiot J - School grad just sits right down and starts banging out meaningless sentences — because that's the way the story reads then you are very much mistaken.

The art of news writing is as complex as ... as the word their for instance. There are of course three different varieties ... their, there and they're. You would be amazed how many college grads, now news writers, confuse their "theirs"."

But no longer. The AP Stylebook sets us straight, so there.

But then, take people. Better yet, take your mother in law. AP does, adds a hyphen between each of the words to give us mother - in - law. It is the final word on mothers - in - law, or so we are informed.

Ping pong anyone? Only if you make it one word — pingpong. Hyphenate it and you have some manufacturer's trademark.

So too with Photostat and Xerox and Coke. Trademarks all. Use without capitals under threat of libel.

Which is yet another part of the AP Stylebook. Advising reporters and editors how to tell all, but still stay out of jail. It is not easy.

Free press is in for confrontation with fair trial these days. Our constitutional guarantees are on a collision course. Which is more important? Send the nasty to jail for life? Or, Keep readers posted on the gory details, from seizure to sentence? Choose one.

Ever since somebody kidnapped the Lindbergh baby, Americans have been wondering if jurisprudence is a fancy name for entertainment. We are a nation titillated by terror, mesmerized by murder. Newspersons like to believe they have finally drawn a firm line, between one and the other. But then along comes "Son of Sam", and it's full gore ahead, folks.

Stylebooks do not tell reporters how to write. They merely offer guidelines, so that what is written in New York might make sense in California. And if you think that's easy, then you've never written New Yorkese.

Now there is a standard. One language that every American can comprehend, from Bawstin to Los Angerlees. Or at least, in print.

*April Fools' Day. Three*words, all capitalized, with the apostrophe indicating it is a day which belongs to all of us, rather than just one of us. (How have you been getting along all these years without a newspaper stylebook?)

*Halloween. One*word, no break. So much for that myth about all hallow'd eve as in All Saints Day. But let's face it, it's a long time since any of us connected Halloween with the saints.

It is also a long time since most of us worried about girlfriends, or boyfriends. But if you still do, then please worry in one word, not two.

So too with godchild, godmother, and godawful. All one. And percent. Joined forever. I am pleased to see that Great Depression is being preserved, two words, with capitals. But, sadly, Armistice Day is now a "see Veterans Day" footnote in the lexicon of newspapering.

And how about some of the new Americanese ... the language of Washington, the Pentagon, the people who have been able to say a great deal while telling us very little, through the artistry of words?

Well, "eyeballing" is not in the AP Stylebook, sad to relate. All those years when Nixon and Johnson and General Whatsits stood "eyeball to eyeball" with the Ruskies, and not a mention in the reporters' handbook. Gone too is "waste", that marvelous euphemism by which we "wasted" people throughout the world, without ever killing a single one.

Ah yes, the language of newspapering is a - changing (not listed). But journalism is nothing, if it is not also courageous. Sometimes.

Ms. If a married woman is known by her maiden last name, precede it by 'Miss' on second preference unless she prefers 'Ms.' Example: Jane Fonda, Miss Fonda.

Ms. Fonda will blow hell out of that one. But then again, she never was one to worry about style.

"Some of the people on the staff were wondering if it would be okay to wear bib overalls to work!?"

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I've always been envious of people who can have fun doing daring things, taking chances on a ski slope, surfing, or just abandoning themselves to the joy and adventure of the moment. I'd give almost anything if I woke up one morning and found I could share in some of these activities. If I could, my problems with people might be solved. I stay home from parties that I really should go to, if only for business purposes, because I'm afraid. I don't know why, but I wish I could overcome this problem. — J.R.

DEAR J.R.: To overcome your problem, you have to learn to take some risks. Start out by deliberately planning some relatively minor challenges that you will face and meet head-on. Once you take this step, you'll find that you begin to gain confidence and each day you'll be able to undertake something new.

What I think you want to achieve is the line between taking no risks and being bored unless you're living dangerously. Both are extreme positions and should be avoided. The happiest, best-adjusted people follow the middle path.

People who suffer from depression are often the most cautious. Sometimes this fear of failure, this inability to take chances can actually bring about a state of depression.

Don't be afraid to take lessons in skiiing or surfing or any activity you choose to break through your former pattern. Get professional help so you go into the acitivity with some confidence and skill. This is a pattern you can break, and you'll start feeling a new sense of self-esteem once you start trying.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Every time my wife hears good news about anyone else, even about me, she goes into a depression. If someone does something that fails, she's set and comfortable for a week or so. She thrives on other people's failures. I find this disgusting and unattractive and yet I can't bring myself to talk to her about it. She seems totally unaware of this trait. If I mentioned it, she'd probably deny it, but it's clear to me and to anyone else who knows her well. What would help her? Most of the time she's miserable. — M.M.

DEAR M.M.: Your wife suffers from an ailment that is very destructive, but also very common. Envy has been called the worst of the seven deadly sins. It can produce serious physical as well as emotional pain. Some people can get a stomachache, a backache or an ulcer attack whenever they learn of the good fortune of another, even though that person is a good friend.

Envy is basically a feeling of dissatisfaction and discontent with one's self. One of the best ways to lick the problem is to engage oneself in something that can bring success and satisfaction.

Your wife needs to build up her self-esteem and to take another closer look at her own good fortune. She sees only the good, the positive in the fortunes of others. This indicates a limited imagination, for the possible pain their lives is completely overlooked. What have they had to sacrifice to gain the rewards that look so tempting? The more we know about a situation, the less we tend to envy it because then we see all the sacrifices that have been made to achieve that goal.

You can help your wife by encouraging her to work at something that will develop her potential.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — Several months ago I had prostate surgery and got along real fine. Then I developed an infection of my testicles and they were badly swollen for several weeks. My doctor is having me sit in hot water a half hour at a time. The swelling is almost gone, but I still have to wear a supporter day and night.

He has me taking Vibramycin capsules twice a day. I have heard the mycin drugs are hard on a person and could lead to other side effects. Could you please comment as I am sure other men have had this surgery and infection and would be happy to hear what can be done for them.

DEAR READER — Inflammation of the testicles after a prostate operation is one of the complications that can occur. Some doctors often did a vasectomy at the same time in an effort to prevent involvement of the testicles years before it became a popular method of birth control.

The infection is caused by a germ and the treatment depends a lot on identifying it. Certainly Vibramcyin is a good and safe antibiotic that would be used in some cases. It is not a dangerous medicine. It and other tetracyclines should not be used during the first eight years of life or in a woman who is pregnant because these medicines may discolor the teeth and affect the enamel. I don't think you need to worry about that. Vibramycin has less of a tendency to irritate the bowel or cause digestive upsets than some of the other tetracyclines.

Prostate enlargement that requires surgery is a common problem for men. The reasons for prostate enlargement are not completely understood.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have some questions about liquid protein. I have asked the druggest and the people at the health food stores who sell it about its purpose and what effects it has on your body. I have asked them what does "biodigestable" mean and no one can give me a straight answer. Can you answer these questions? Would you recommend it as part of a diet?

DEAR READER — I could summarize my response in one syllable — UGH!

Biodigestable sounds like a promotional word creation and from ts roots should bean biologically digestible — and any food you eat has to be biologically digestible or it is simply bulk.

If you eat a reasonable amount of red meat, poultry, fish or milk and dairy products you are getting plenty of protein if you are a normal healthy person.

Q. "WHAT IS A CASSOWARY?"
A. A CASSOWARY IS A LARGE, OSTRICHLIKE BIRD THAT LIVES IN THE THICK FORESTS OF AUSTRALIA AND NEW GUINEA
NANCY STOCKERT CARROLL, IA

DICK ROGERS

The cassowary (say KAS-oh-WER-ee) is a large, odd-looking bird that lives in the thick forests of Australia and New Guinea. A fully grown cassowary may be five feet tall and weigh 100 pounds.

Like its African relative, the ostrich, the cassowary cannot fly. All that remains of its flight feathers are a few spiny quills.

But it can sprint at speeds up to 40 m.p.h. on its long, powerful legs. It can also leap 6 or more feet into the air with ease.

The drooping, bristlelike feathers that cover its body serve as a form of armor as it crashes headlong through the forest to escape danger.

A bony helmet on its featherless head helps it butt through the tangled branches and vines.

If cornered, it attacks by kicking its big feet. Its toes are armed with sharp claws, which can be deadly weapons. The cassowary feeds mainly on fruit, plants and insects.

Today, everyone uses Blackwood. It stands to reason that experts have done considerable tinkering with this fine convention. The first bit of tinkering was to provide that the response of five clubs would show no aces or four aces. It is assumed that if you can't tell which of those two hands your partner holds you shouldn't be playing bridge.

Today's hand was played some years ago in the finals of the Life Master Pairs. Everyone played the hand in spades and made 13 tricks. A few unfortunate underbidders stopped at game, just one pair reached the grand slam. They used the bidding in the box.

North's five-club bid showed zero or four aces and it wasn't hard for South to tell which it was. Then South reached down into his bag of tricks and bid five diamonds.

There had been no agreement as to the meaning of this bid but North finally decided that South wanted to know if North had any diamond losers. So North bid six diamonds and South bid the grand slam.

Overbidding, but successful overbidding.

San Jose papers to limit porn ads

SAN JOSE (AP) — The San Jose Mercury and the San Jose News today announced they no longer will permit illustrations or "descriptive language" in ads for x-rated or unrated movies.

P. Anthony Ridder, publisher of the morning Mercury and afternoon News, said in a statement that, "Many of our readers feel we should not accept any of this kind of advertising.

"While I understand and sympathize with their aversion to pornographic movies, I feel that a general circulation newspaper should be as open as possible to the interests of all its readers."

Ridder's statement said the newspapers would accept "only the title of the film (as long as it is not offensive), the name and address of the theater and the times the film is to be shown." The advertisements will be a maximum of one column by three inches deep in size, he added.

Last month the Los Angeles Times, the Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram and the Valley News in Van Nuys joined newspapers in San Diego, Fresno, Modesto and Sacramento in taking similar action to restrict the content of pornographic theater ads.

New look at advise-consent

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that it's too late to spare the Senate or the White House the embarrassment of tardy disclosures about Bert Lance, there is a move on to create a strict new system for the confirmation of nominees to top government jobs.

If that really happens, it likely will be the most lasting impact of the controversy over Lance and his private financial practices. It also will be a minor political miracle.

The Senate is supposed to advise and consent on appointments to the Cabinet and other major administration positions. It almost invariably consents, often without much advice.

Never has a newly elected president like Jimmy Carter been denied Senate approval of his nominees to the first Cabinet of a new administration. There have been midterm Cabinet rejections, but only eight of those.

And they more often stemmed from political or personality conflicts than from any real Senate inquiry into the credentials — or the closets — of the president's nominees. The skeletons, if there were any, usually turned up later.

The attitude generally has been that the president is entitled to have the people he wants in administration jobs, barring some compelling reason to tell him no.

That makes sense, but it also can make trouble. An early warning of the banking practices that brought Lance under criticism might have avoided the controversy that has become a Washington preoccupation in recent weeks.

Lance was confirmed to be director of the Office of Management and Budget after two days of hearings, without a real Senate investigation, and with only token dissent.

Yet Lance had been the object of government investigation. The FBI and the comptroller of the currency both had data that might have derailed the nomination — or saved his job. Published at the time of the confirmation proceedings, the story of Lance's loans and overdrawn checks would have had nothing approaching the impact created by their belated disclosure.

Given the mood of a Democratic Senate welcoming a new Democratic president, it may well be that Lance would have been confirmed anyhow, and the issue would have been settled at the outset.

But the information didn't go to the people responsible for judging Lance's qualifications to serve as budget director. There was only a cursory Senate inquiry in which the executive agencies that had looked into Lance's affairs reported no serious problems.

Social Security plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired people could earn up to $1,500 more without losing Social Security benefits under a plan approved by a House subcommittee, whose chairman says the current limit reduces the elderly to eating pet food.

Recipients who now earn more than $3,000 lose $1 in benefits for every $2 they bring in above the ceiling. That limitation, says Rep. James A. Burke, D-Miss., means some retirees are "living on a diet of cat and dog food."

In a move experts say could affect a million people, the House Ways and Means subcommittee on Social Security Wednesday tentatively approved raising the allowance in 1978.

Labor loses bid on wage limits

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, working on a bill to raise the minimum wage to $2.65 an hour in January, voted Thursday to kill a plan to provide automatic increases in the minimum wage after 1980.

At the same time, the House agreed to limit scheduled increases to $2.85 in 1979 and to $3.05 in 1980 instead of $2.89 and $3.15 as favored by organized labor and the Carter administration.

The 223-193 vote was a sharp blow to organized labor, which had expected to win the fight for a mechanism to provide future increases automatically.

Labor also was expected to be on the short end of a battle over whether to set up a subminimum wage for teen-agers under age 18.

However, the House eventually was expected to pass the bill raising the current $2.30 an hour minimum. About 3.1 million workers, or 3.3 per cent of those working, earn the minimum.

The House killed the indexing provision by accepting a substitute proposal by Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Ill., to limit the increase to $2.65 in January, $2.85 in 1979 and $3.05 in 1980.

Organized labor wanted the indexing provision to avoid the bruising congressional battles like the current one that have been fought every three or four years since the first minimum wage was adopted decades ago.

"Adopting this index means we will be abandoning the fight against inflation," charged Erlenborn. "It is waving the white flag of surrender to inflation."

Majority Leader Jim Wright argued, however, that indexing "would protect those at the bottom of the wage scale against great rises in prices. It would help the working poor guard against inflation."

Another provision in danger that restaurant workers want but restaurants oppose would reduce the so-called "tip credit."

The House dealt labor another setback by accepting a Republican amendment by a 264- 161 vote to continue to let employers pay only half the minimum wage to employes who receive tips.

The reasoning is that these workers more than make up the difference in tips. Labor had wanted to scale down the so-called "tip credit" to no more than $1 an hour by 1980, but the restaurant industry opposed the move.

President Carter opposed the sub-minimum wage but favored attempts to keep the full tip credit.

New hope for the old Blues

On Sports

The last time the University of California went to the Rose Bowl ducktails were in style, the space race had just begun and Iowa won the Big Ten championship.

That last fact shows just how much times have changed since January of 1959 when the Bears were crushed by Iowa, 38-12. Iowa is now at best an also-ran in the Michigan-Ohio State-dominated Big Ten.

George Freitas

But while Iowa still struggles at the bottom, California shows signs of a revival. The Bears, who defeated Tennessee 27-17 in their opener last Saturday, could make their presence felt in the Pac-Eight race this season.

California has a defense that rates among the conference's best and a brillant young quarterback who could overshadow Stanford ace Guy Benjamin this season.

This "brillant young quarterback" is Charles Young, a junior college transfer from Pierce College. Young merely broke the community college records of the late Joe Roth. He also has the ability to run with the ball and make a bad play develop into a good one. He's a scrambler and, with his ability to throw, makes him a double-threat for the opposing teams.

California head coach Mike White is apparently playing it cool this season in contrast to the last couple of years.

In 1975 and 1976 he went out on a limb and stated that the Bears had an excellent chance of making the Super Bowl. In 1975 California did managed a tie with UCLA for the Pac-Eight crown but last season slumped to a 5-6 record.

This season he's been evasive and this may be a plus in the Bear's corner.

People have been generally overlooking California in the pre-season polls and that could be a mistake. The Bears have a veteran defensive line-up, a strong fullback in Paul Jones and two veteran running backs in Oliver Hillman and Markie Drane, both of whom shared the starting duties last seson.

The Bears also have an imposing tight end in George Freitas, a 6-3, 215 pounder from Visalia. Freitas has been mentioned on several pre-season All-American teams and while he lacks the speed of the graduated Wesley Walker, makes up for it with his blocking ability and great hands. He could take a lot of pressure off Jones and the other ball carriers on third down and short-yardage situations.

But defense is where the Bears really shine.

Ralph DeLoach, a junior from Sacramento High School (6-4, 245 pounds) leads an awesome front four that has both speed and size.

Burl Toler at defensive end only weighs 200 pounds but more than makes up for it with great quickness and desire. He's one of the fastest players on the Cal team.

The defensive backfield is also experienced, led by returning All-Pac-Eight defender Anthony Green of Diablo Valley College.

And let's ot forget little Jimmy Breech, another Sacramento High product, who is probably the conference's best place kicker.

If you put aside Young's inexperience at quarterback (and examine his ability) the Bears have nor real weakness.

While it may seem unreal to some longtime and frustated Bear Backers California could be taking a trip to a bowl game this season.

They won't be the conference favorites, if course. That honor generally goes to USC.

But a second-place finish is not out of the quetion, particuarly if Young continues to improve and the running backs get into high gear.

With a fairly easy non-league schedule and the improvement that comes naturally with game experience the Bears could gain a 8-3 or even 9-2 record this season.

And that sure beats the 2-8 and 1-9 seasons achieved by Bear teams 15 years ago.

A toast for Oakland soccer

SAN FRANCISCO — A brass band, a chartered tour boat, roast beef and champagne. All to estate the obvious.

Milan Mandaric will sell his controlling interest in the San Jose Earthquakes of the North American Soccer League. He has purchased the Connecticut Bicentennials. He will move them into the Oakland Coliseum.

Perhaps the only surprise Mandaric, and his once and current general manager Dick Berg, had for the spate of media persons and soccer coaches who climbed aboard the Harbor yesterday for a two-hour and a five-minute press conference was the name of the team.

The Stompers.

"One industry in California has gone unrecognized in the name of sports teams for too long," Berg said, flashing his ready smile. No it isn't sado-masochism, motorcycle gangs or random street killings. It is, says Berg, the wine industry, and the Oakland Stompers entire organizational motif will be giddy with it.

The booster club will be known as the "Corkpoppers," the season ticket holders will be dubbed, "Connoisseurs," a women's support group (?) will go by the sobriquet "Champagne Club," youthful fans will be called "Tiny Bubbles" and the Stompers' rah-rah corps has been named — cover your ears, Father — the "Blue Nuns."

Even sections of the Coliseum will be designated by names usually reserved for types of wine, Chablis, Rose, etc. And here Herb Caen had you believing Ripple was the only thing they drink in Oakland.

Mandaric, a 38-year old electronics tycoon, now finds himself in the interesting position of briefly owning two sports franchises in the same league. Under league rules, he has two business days to divest himself of his share of the 'Quakes, a team that has grown in value almost 5 times since his original $75,000 investment four years ago.

A group headed by 'Quake minority shareholder Tony Kovac, and including Pleasanton's Bob Himsl, is expected to buy the San Jose franchise Monday.

Both Berg, who has worked with the 49ers, 'Quakes and Dallas Tornado, and Mandaic indicated that the Stompers would be promoted just as heavily as the 'Quakes have been and that the team would involve itself in youth, high school and collegiate soccer programs.

Glads down South

Keith Fyfe of Chabot College packs the football in last week's 20-13 loss to San Joaquin Delta. The Gladiators travel to Visalia romorrow night to face the College of the Sequoias. The Giants return 19 letterman from last season's 9-2 Valley Conference champions and are ranked sixth in the state. Chabot will provide Sequoias with its first opposition of the season.

Wilkes for $$, pick

NEW YORK — The Golden State Warriors will receive a first-round draft pick from the Los Angeles Lakers in the 1978 college draft, plus $250,000, as compensation for the Lakers' signing of forward Jamaal Wilkes earlier this summer, National Basketball Association Commissioner Larry O'Brien ruled Thursday.

It was the first major compensation dispute which O'Brien was called upon to settle under the collective bargaining agreement between the NBA and the Players Association.

Wilkes, a 6 - foot - 6 forward from UCLA who was the NBA's Rookie of the Year in 1974 and has been a starter in all three of his pro seasons, played out his option with the Warriors last winter and signed with the Lakers. The two teams could not agree on compensation, so the case went to O'Brien.

The Lakers had offered a middle first-round draft choice. The Warriors had suggested a number of alternatives, ranging from MVP center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar to $1.25 million to a package consisting of two firstround draft picks, $750,000, and two players from among Kenny Carr, Kermit Washington and Earl Tatum.

"On the basis of all of the facts and arguments presented," said O'Brien, "I find that Wilkes is an exceptional player, far above the 'average' category in which Los Angeles now seeks to place him."

"I find that no player or players on the Los Angeles roster are comparable to Wilkes," O'Brien said, "and I also find that the award of a future draft choice or draft choices alone, without an additional cash award to replace Wilkes immediately, would fail impermissably short of making Golden State whole."

The Warriors will receive the earliest pick the Lakers have in the first round of the 1978 draft, plus $125,000 on Nov. 1 and the remaining $125,000 on Jan. 1. Besides their own No. 1 pick, the Lakers have the option to trade places with New Orleans, and also own Kansas City's No. 1 pick.

Royals take A's

KANSAS CITY — Pete LaCock's one-out single in the 11th inning scored Willie Wilson from second base and led the Kansas City Royals to a 7-6 come-from-behind victory over the Oakland A's Thursday night in the rain-delayed first game of a doubleheader.

The second game between the two teams was tied 4-4 after regulation nine innings.

The victory pushed the Royals' winning streak to 15 straight games, the longest string since the New York Yankees equaled that number in 1960.

Astros rally, win 6-3

SAN FRANCISCO — Bob Watson's two-run homer in the seventh inning snapped a 3- 3 tie and gave the Houtson Astros a comeback 6-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants Thursday.

The victory went to reliever Gene Pentz, 5-2, who pitched hitless ball over the last four innings.

The Astros' run in the ninth was scored by Terry Puhl, who led off with a single, went to third on Cesar Ceden ingle and scored on Cruz' grounder. Cedeno had two hits in the game and now has hit in 18 straight games.

The Giants were hitless over the final five innings. Tom Dixon, who relieved starter Dan Larson, faced just three batters in the fifth before leaving for a hitter.

The Giants stole a one-game high of five bases, including two by Gary Thomasson in the fourth inning when they scored twice. Thomasson stole third base and was credited with a steal of home when he broke for the plate on an intended squeeze play and Larson threw wide for a wild pitch.

The National League West opponents split their season series 9-9.

'Poke netters nip Wolves

Livermore High took the driver's seat for second-place in the East Bay Athletic League tennis race yesterday with a tight 4-3 win over San Ramon in Danville.

The Cowboys are now tied with Monte Vista and Dubln for first place in the EBAL with 2-0 records. The Mustangs, having already beaten two of the stronger teams in the league in Amador Valley and Granada, are figured to win the title with little difficulty.

Yesterday, the Mustangs, even though missing second singles player Tripp Gordon who was playing in a tuornament, didn't lose a single set in a 7-0 win over Granada.

Doug Stone was particularly impressive in a 6-0, 6-0 win over Murray Dean, while the closest the Mats could come to a set win was with second singles' Greg Corallo and fourth singles' Lino Neri.

They each lost opening-set tiebreakers, 5-3.

Dublin can enjoy being temporarily a team to beat, ekeing out their second straight league win in a 4-3 decision over Foothill.

The key win came from fourth singles player Steve Cameron, who rallied for a 5-7, 6-3, 6-2 win over Foothill's Doug Jones in the final match to be completed.

Joe Kallman and John Amador tangled with Foothill's John Dewitt and Kevin Reilly in one of the more exciting doubles matches of the season, and the Dublin team came out ahead 7-6, 6-7, 6-4.

Amador toppled California 6-1, with Matt Anger's straight-sets win over Brett Lutz a highlight. Dean Copeman played his match of the year in beating Brian Mathene, 6-1, 6-2.

Cal's lone win came from Joe Skeen, who toppled David Reinecking 5-7, 7-5, 6-0.

Las Lomas tops Cal runners

WALNUT CREEK — Las Lomas took a decisive 15-50 victory over California here yesterday in a varsity cross-country match on the winners' course.

Burt Kallander of Las Lomas won the two-and-one-half mile race in 13:34. John Ganio of Las Lomas was second in 13:55. John Vicory was the top Grizzly runner as he finished eighth in 14:42. ck Schwerin of California finished 11th in 15:27.

EBAL teams hope for better

East Bay Athletic League football teams will be hoping to improve on last week's poor 1-6-1 record as they enter the second week of non-league competition tonight.

Amador Valley hosts Tracy, Livermore travels to Lincoln of Stockton, Granada hosts Washington of Fremont, Foothill travels to Alhambra, Dublin is at Carson City, Nevada, San Lorenzo hosts California, Monte Vista travels to Las Lomas and San Ramon plays home against Del Valle.

FOOTHILL -ALHAMBRA

Coach Bob Heaston's Alhambra squad is short on numbers but has an abundance of size.

"We only have about 28 or 29 players on the team," he commented. "But we do has size and experience in our offensive and defensive lines. They average about 190 pounds."

Steve Contreas (235 pounds) and Jose Padilla (6-1, 260 pounds) form the backbone of the defensive line at tackle.

Contreas also plays on offense along with center Bill Thomas (210), tackle Scott Cummings (190) and guard Jim Jim Costanzo (180).

"The offensive line is probably our biggest assest," Heaston said.

The Bulldogs may be hurting at quarterback where regular Ricky Seiv is out with an injured arm. Senior Sreve Welch will take his place and run the pro-offense.

"Welch has a good arm," Heaston said. "Our running backs are Mike Quantamatteo and Luke Robinson. We'll probably alternate them at that position."

Foothill is coming off a rugged 7-7 tie with St. Marys of Berkeley.

The Falcons' defense was impressive against St. Marys, holding the Panthers to nine first downs and 128 yards total offense.

Scott Henderson leads the Foothill defense. He intecepted a St. Mary's pass last week. Doug Stevenson manns the quarterback spot for Foothill. Stevenson completed seven of 15 passes against St. Marys and 73 yards and is improving gradually.

AMADOR VALLEY -TRACY

Amador Valley will be facing a rugged task when it faces Tracy, a 42-28 winner over Manteca last week.

Junior running back John Morehouse exploded for 217 yards and three touchdowns in leading the Tracy win over Manteca, which was more one-sided than it sounded.

Tracy is young and has just one offensive starter returning from last season.

However, the Bulldogs have goos size in 270-pound guard Jeff Randall and 245-pound tackle Mike Lepetto. Most of their strength is in the defensive unit, a traditional Tracy strength.

Amador is led by quarterback Pat Inglesby who doubled at quarterback and defensive back last week despite injuring his elbow.

The Dons also have large and experienced offensive and defensive lines. Ernie Zumbach and defensive back Chucl Gilliam (who intercepted two passes against Irvington) are Amador Valley standouts.

GRANADA- WASHINGTON

This game matches two teams with North Coast Section 4-A playoff experience.

Washington finished second to Pinole Valley last season in a wind storm at Diablo Valley College.

The Huskies have 12 returning lettermen and are led by quarterback John Born.

"Born's a threat for us because he can run and pass," said Washington coach Bob Springer about the 5-10, 160-pounder.

Washington has fair size in the offensive line with Bill Morones, a returning All-Mission Valley Athletic League player at tight end.

Morones, at 6-4, 210 pounds, is a good receiver and can also block, according to the Huskie coach.

Other Washington linemen are Mark Gentry (6-0, 203 pounds) and Rob Rodriguez (5-10, 185 pounds).

The defense may be where Washington's strength lies. The Huskies' defenders only gave up one touchdown in last week's 12-0 loss to Hayward and that came on a tipped pass.

Gentry will also go on defense and will anchor a fairly big line. Tom Walsh (5-10, 210 pounds) is another top linemen.

Glads blank Cal, but tie

HAYWARD — Chabot College ran its non-league soccer record to 3-0-I by tying the University of California junior varisty, 0-0, her yesterday afternoon and is approaching a school record for consecutive shutouts.

Ther's a catch. The Gladiators next game is with the defending NCAA Division I champion San Francisco Dons Sunday at the Valley Campus in Livermore.

Yesterday, spite several thrusts at the Cal goal and a shot advantage of 19-5 and a 5-2 edge in corner kicks, Chabot could not score a decisive goal against the Bears, who included Manzar Iqbaland Keith Teel as well as coach Bill Coupe from last year's Granada High School team.

Another ex-Matador, Shannon Estill, had five shots on goal for Chabot while Sergio Hernandez fired four.

Chabot volleyballers lose 1st home match

HAYWARD — A fine comeback effort came up just short as the Chabot College women's volleyball team dropped a tough five-game match to Ohlone College in its first home game ver.

The Gladiators lost the first two games, 15-13 and 15-11, before rallying to take the next two, 15-10 and 16-14. Chabot lost the tiebraker, 15-6.

Illegal hits, a punchless offense, and generally sloppy play plagued the Gladiators for most of the first game. The hosts managed to keep the game close, but key mistakes caused them to drop the opener.

The second game was more of the same for the hosts. The strong serves of Ohlone's Sheryl Paler and Kolone Scalone, both sophomores, kept Chabot from getting its offensive game off the ground.

Ohlone had jumped to a 3-0 lead in the third game when Chabot's offense finally came to life. Former Amador Valley star Carmen Macon's strong spikes accounted for four points in a string of eight consecutive Chabot points that gave the Gladiators a 10-3 lead. Serving during the string was Kim Libert, another Amador grad.

Macon served up th last four points of the game, including an ace.

Ohlon took a 13-4 lead in tMe fourth game, puting Chabot within two points of elimination in the best three-of-five match. But the Gladiators' Debbie Oxsen, yet another player from Amador, scored two points with hard-hit spikes and teammate Libert served up six consecutive points to put Chabot back in the game.

Both teams exchanged the lead several times. Then, with the score knotted at 14, Oxsen service caused a Renagade player to hit the return into the net. She followed that with a service ace to win the game.

The fifth game started out as a carbon copy of the previous games, with Ohlone gaining a quick early lead. But this time Chabot couldn't quite muster up yet another come-from-behind effort.

But she also had praise for the way her team kept coming from behind. "One thing about this team is that they're all really competitive," said Machado. "They've got a lot of self-confidence so that they don't fall apart when it gets tough. And they never give up."

The loss evened Chabot's record at 1-1, while Oholone raised its record to 1-2.

Prep gridders to try again

Tim King, who will aslo play at running back, is the star of the Washington defense. He made All-MVAL last season as a linebacker.

Granada hopes to rebound from its 21-8 loss to Overfelt last week on the passing of veteran Steve Robison and some good defense led by Steve Nalty (6-2, 218 pounds) and Kevin Gosney.

DUBLIN-CARSON CITY

The Gaels will be taking a long trip to the Nevada state capital and whether that has an effect on the game remains to be seen.

Carson City loss a 14-6 decision to Highlands of Sacramento last week in its opener. Highlands is usually one of the better teams in the Capital City area.

The Nevada squad finished the 1976 season with a 5-4 mark and is led by senior quarterback Rhett Jesse. Jesse also plays defense.

Tony Lewis is the tailback and Dean Heller goes at fullback. Tony Giannandrea is a veteran at tight end for Carson City. They operate out of a Pro-I offense.

On defense Carson City is strong in the secondary with Logans Hand, Ivan Farnworth and Dean Schmanski standing out.

Barry McGee, a 6-3, 190 pound defensive end is another star performer for the Nevada squad.

Dublin is led by senior running back Jon Batchelor, a 10.1 sprinter.

The Gaels lost a 13-0 decision to American High of Fremont last week but were plagued by fumbles.

Dan Pearson is a fine receiver for Dublin. He caught four passes for 70 yards last week.

LINCOLN

Lincoln lacks size and experience but is quick off the ball, as its 16-14 victory over a tough St. Mary's of Stockton squad last week indicates.

Andy Lamond, a senior, will be at quarterback for the Trojans. He threw for 28 yards on four out of seven passing attempts against St. Mary's and also ran for 29 yards in seven carries.

Lincoln has several running backs to choose from. They include Carl Suttmann, Gary Yabumoto, Neil Jackson and Dean Stiles.

Monte Merrill is the only two-way starter for the Stockton club. The 5-10, 190 pound guard goes at linebacker in the Rams' Oklahoma defense.

Livermore hopes to rebound from a heartbreaking 20-17 loss to Castro Valley last week.

Castro Valley scored two touchdowns in the last seven minutes to win the contest.

Pete Martinez and Frank Brown will do a lot of running for the Cowboys. Martinez gained 92 fards, including an 18-yarder against Castro Valley.

Livermore will probably have an edge in depth and experience on the Trojans.

The Cowboys have 50 players on the varsity this year.

CALIFORNIA -SAN LORENZO

After breezing to a 28-6 win over Benicia last week California could be in trouble against the Rebels.

San Lorenzo romped over Newark 35-7 in its opener last week.

Paul Petros, a part-time starter last year, will be the San Lorenzo quarterback this time.

The Rebel offensive line is experienced and big.

Middle linebacker Willie Hamm leads the defense. Tackles Greg Peretti (6-2, 240) and Lewis Hazzard (6-2, 225) are standouts in the defensive line.

Cal is led by Craig Miller, a fullback who ran for three touchdowns against Benicia, and quarterback Tom Woodmansee.

The Grizzlies have more depth than usual and that could prove to be a factor.

SAN RAMON -DEL VALLE

San Ramon, coming off a frustating loss to Oak Grove of San Jose, will take on a big Del Valle team.

Del Valle is rated vastly improved over last year's squad.

However, if the Wolves ca eliminate thier mistakes, they could roll over the Trojans.

Quarterback Guy Hoston leads the San Ramon attack and has a host of talented receivers.

MONTE VISTA -LAS LOMAS

A even battle could occur here. Neither team has much depth.

Las Lomas has good talent and might rate a slight edge over the Mustangs. Monte Vista has offensive punch but is hurting on defense and lost quite a few players to graduation.

Cal faces Air Force

Yes, Stanford will run

SAN FRANCISCO — Coach Bill Walsh put Stanford's game plan for Tulane on the table.

"I think we can live by our word: we're going to run the ball, and we're going to run to our left side with our fullback," he told football writers Monday.

The Cardinals will go into New Orleans' Superdome, Walsh made clear, daring Tulane to play a prevent-style defense aimed at stopping the passing of Guy Benjamin who had 20 completions for 258 yards in last Saturday's 27-21 loss to Colorado.

Stanford rushed for 170 yards in the opener despite losing starting fullback Phil Francis, who suffered a mild concussion, early in the game and the Cards are confident they can do even better.

The California Bears got a 128-yard performance from fullback Paul Jones in their opening victory over Tennessee, indicating they won't have to live by the pass this season.

Last year, the two Pacific-8 teams threw the ball about as much as anyone in college football, with Joe Roth handling the Cal quarterback job and Stanford going with either Benjamin or Mike Cordova.

Roth, a senior last year, died of cancer over the winter and the Bears' uniforms this year have small sleeve patches bearing Roth's uniform number, 12, and the words "Faith-Humility-Courage."

Roth's successor at quarterback, junior college transfer Charlie Young, got an instant test of courage at Tennessee.

"Can you imagine starting your first collegiate game on the one-yard line before more than 80,000 fans?" Coach Mike White said Monday, looking back at the situation Young was in early Saturday night. "He threw his first pass from the five and completed it. It was a tribute to the kind of young man he is."

Jones said, "Charlie was very poised, and he's going to get better week by week."

White said the key to the offense's success was ball control provided by the running game, with 260-pound tackle Leo Biedermann singled out for an excellent blocking performance.

Cal will be home this Saturday, facing a young Air Force team which played Wyoming to a 0-0 tie in its opener.

Stanford freshman tailback Darrin Nelson broke into college ball by rushing for 99 yards and catching four passes including one on a 56-yard touchdown play. John Finley, who carried the load at fullback, gained 44 yards on 12 carries.

"We've got a tremendous offensive left tackle in Gordon King," Walsh said. "He was awesome at Colorado and we're going to continue running left."

Because of their showing against nationally ranked Colorado, the Cards figure to be favored against Tulane which lost its opener 27-9 to Memphis State.

Walsh put things into perspective, however:

"People keep saying to us, 'Nice job.' But if we keep doing nice jobs like that, we'll finish 0-11."

Wind stalls Turner

NEWPORT, R.I. — Courageous skipper Ted Turner, who had a lead of more than 10 minutes at one point, saw sure victory over Australia in their second America's Cup race slip from his grasp Thursday as winds died down and neither boat could complete the course within the 5½-hour time limit.

Winds began from the northnortheast at 10-15 knots in the morning but diminished to three knots or less as they shifted to the south in the afternoon. Turner had a lead of 10 minutes, 45 seconds at the fourth mark.

High Times, Body Comfort and Trinity all finished the season with 8-6 records.

How to save all you can on insurance

There are no "back to school" specials in auto insurance. Rates have been steadily increasing for all categories of California drivers, but insurance buyers can make certain that they take advantage of every saving possible, the Insurance Information Institute suggests.

Safe drivers — you can save on your auto insurance if you (and other drivers in your household) have been free of responsibility for accidents or serious traffic law violations during the last three years.

The kind of car you drive — if you are in the market for a new car and are considering several different models and sizes, find out from your insurance agent or broker before you buy just what the auto insurance costs will run on the various types.

Deductibles — the higher the dollar deductible you are willing to assume, the lower the cost of your collision and comprehensive insurance coverages. In collision insurance, a $200 deductible can save you 16 per cent over the cost of $100 deductible coverage. Going from a $200 to $250 deductible can save an additional 10 per cent, and increasing it from $250 to $500 makes for an additional 27.5 per cent saving. Similarly, if you now have a $50 deductible on your comprehensive coverage you can save 20 per cent of the premium cost by assuming a $100 deductible.

Dropping certain coverages — if your car is over five years old its "blue book" value will be quite low. You might consider dropping collision and comprehensive insurance coverage entirely.

Premium payments — if you can, pay your auto insurance premium for as long a time segment as possible, every six months or even yearly. Monthly or quarterly payments may be more convenient, but they are generally more expensive.

Multi-car discounts — if you or immediate family members living in your household own two or more passenger cars, most insurance companies will offer a premium discount if the cars are insured under one auto insurance policy.

Young drivers — various discounts can hold down the increased auto insurance costs you face if you have a young driver in your household. Many companies offer discounts if the young driver has taken driver training courses or if he or she maintains good grades while attending high school or while taking full-time college or university courses. And if your young driver is attending school more than 100 miles away from where the family car is garaged, some companies offer further discounts.

Bumper discounts — some companies offer discounts on collision insurance if your bumper meets certain safety standards. Check with your agent or broker to see if your car qualifies for the "better bumper" savings.

Driving for pleasure — the lowest insurance rates within an area are charged where the car is not used in business or driving to and from work. If you can take public transportation, you'll save on insurance, as well as parking fees.

Car pools — if taking public transportation isn't a possibility, how about joining a car pool. If you've been driving to work by yourself, participating in a non-profit car pool can reduce your auto insurance.

Savings for women drivers — a woman 30 through 64 years of age is generally eligible for a 10 per cent premium saving if she is the only person in the household who drives the car.

Older is better — many companies now offer a 10 per cent reduction in auto insurance cost to drivers over sixty five who use their cars for non-business purposes.

Cadillac aims changes for '78 at the consumer

DETROIT — Subtle design refinements and consumer - oriented engineering benefits mark the 1978 Cadillacs introduced by Edward C. Kennard, general manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Division and vice president of General Motors.

Mr. Kennard said Cadillac will offer seven standard and two "Special Edition" cars for 1978, in the familiar De Ville, Fleetwood, Eldorado and Seville models.

The Cadillac general manager reported 978 Cadillac De Ville, Brougham, Limousine and Eldorado models have a new, bolder design grille. All except the Eldorado utilize new rear bumpers with vertical tail lamps incorporated in the bumper outers.

Seville rear lamps are individualized with a chrome insignia, and the paint accent stripe is extended across the deck lid to combine with new bumper guards for a wider, lower rear appearance. Exterior opera lamps are available on the 1978 Seville, except Elegante models.

Mr. Kennard said, "For 1978 we're again planning to personalize between 35 and 40 per cent of our Eldorados with the well received Biarritz optional package. The Biarritz is available in five colors and easily recognized by its uniquely-designed padded vinyl roof, special body moldings, opera lamps, distinctive Biarritz script, special accent stripes and color coordinated wheel discs. The Biarritz interior highlights plush appointments with 50/50 pillow type leather/ vinyl seating."

The second specialty car Mr. Kennard unveiled is the Seville Elegante, which bespeaks the inherent luxury and versatility of Cadillac's international size automobile. It is elegant and sporty at the same time.

Available in two-tone shades of brown, as well as black with platinum, the Elegante displays distinctive scripting, full wire wheels, a fully-painted metal top and specially-styled exterior moldings.

Interior design for the 1978 Cadillacs is essentially unchanged from last year.

Mr. Kennard said there are seven new interior color selections, along with leather/vinyl interior trim and three new body cloths, Random velour and Hampton and Halifax woven cloth. Popular d'Elegance trims provide distinctive De Ville and Brougham identity, coordinating with the 21 Cadillac exterior colors. Seventeen are new colors for 1978, and 15 are exclusive with Cadillac. Sixteen vinyl top color selections are available.

The Seville leather/vinyl seat and door trim has been restyled for a fresher appearance.

Mr. Kennard emphasized, "Cadillac engineers have given particular attention to the desires of our customers for convenience, safety, performance, driveability, and improved fuel efficiency."

All 1978 Cadillacs, except for Seville, are powered by the 425 CID (7.0 Litre) V-8 engine introduced in 1977. The Seville utilizes the 350 CID (5.7 Litre) Electronically Fuel Injected V-8 engine, the only powerplant Seville models have ever used.

Cadillac engineers have developed a new Electronic Spark Selection Control for the 1978 Seville. This system, when added to the High Energy Ignition system, automatically advances or retards engine spark as situations dictate, resulting in estimated highway fuel economy improvements of about one mile per gallon on the 1978 Seville.

Mr. Kennard noted that the Cadillac weight reduction program, which was so successful last year, continues with two major developments for 1978.

The Seville now uses a new aluminum intake manifold 31 pounds lighter than its predecessor but capable of the same demanding performance standards.

Most 1978 Fleetwood Broughams as well as all California and EFI Sedan De Villes will be equipped with an aluminum hood, saving 45 pounds over the conventional hood.

"This will enable us to keep these Sedan de Ville models, with their heavier equipment load, within the 4,500 pound E.P.A. weight class, and also allow us to accumulate the real world experience with these units to plan their expanded usage in the future," Mr. Kennard said.

Cadillac's chief exective said, "Cadillac has been the pinnacle of success in every area of luxury car market since we began 76 years ago. When change is necessary, we've led the way, and continue to do so today.

"In 1978, we're establishing even higher goals for those who strive to compete for the world's most discriminating owners ... our customers."

DETROIT — Cadillac's individuality for 1978 is noticeable from all angles of the Sedan de Ville (upper). As with all full-size Cadillacs for 1978, a new horizontal grille and raised script on the hoodface establish this year's new look. De Ville models possess distinctive series identification with a special sail panel crest and scripted nameplate. After production begins, De Ville and Fleetwood Brougham owners will be offered an optional package featuring chrome accent moldings, rear deck paint stripes and color coordinated body side moldings, affording further personalized luxury for this popular 1978 Cadillac.

The 1978 Cadillac Seville Elegante (lower) emphasizes the versatility of this international size Cadillac with its distinctive blend of elegance and sportiness. Available in two color combinations, two-tone brown or black and platinum, the Elegante exterior design is highlighted by a fully-painted metal roof, chrome accent moldings, w[illegible] wheels and unique Elegante scripts. T[illegible]rior is plush, even by Seville standards, and [illegible]atures leather/vinyl door and seat trim with segments of perforated leather and suede-like accents. A center console includes courtesy lights, fold-down armrest, pen, writing tablet and provisions for a tape storage cabinet or telephone installation. The steering wheel rim is covered in either gray or saddle leather, matching the interior color combination. Cadillac plans to produce about 10,000 Seville Elegante models during 1978. Cadillac will offer a total of seven standard and two "special edition" cars for 1978, in the familiar DeVille, Fleetwood, Eldorado and Seville models.

DISTANT COUSINS -- The 1978 Dodge Diplomat and the 1919 Dodge touring car are nearly 60 years apart but share a common feature -- tilt steering wheels. Diplomat's optional tilt wheel has multi-positions for added driving ease. The old 1919 wheel slid up from the steering column to make it easier to enter or exit the vehicle. While the 1919 Dodge offered few options, the new 1978 Diplomat has a host of comfort and convenience features. Details on the 1978 Diplomat will be made public on September 8 when the new Dodge line is shown to the news media.

Dodge gearing up for push in small car sales this year

DETROIT — Dodge offers consumers an exciting lineup of passenger cars with improved fuel economy features, computer age engines and accessories, and exciting automotive styling as well for 1978, according to Richard D. McLaughlin, vice - president - Automotive Sales Division.

"The trend to small cars is both welcome and inevitable," said McLaughlin. "Dodge has always enjoyed a large share of the small car market and we expect to improve in that market in 1978. And, with our new Magnum XE and Diplomat models, we expect to be very strong in the mid- and regular-size segments."

NEW COLT MODELS

The popular Dodge cole sub-compact has been expanded for 1978 with the introduction of a new sport coupe, the Challenger, and a new, larger Colt wagon. These models, along with the Colt 2-dr. coupe and 4-dr. Mileage Makers (M/M), all feature engines with an innovative MCA-Jet super lean burn combustion system for even greater fuel economy.

The Colt Challenger, a four-passenger sport coupe built on a 99-inch wheel base, has a 1600 cubic centimeter (cc) Silent Shaft MCA-Jet engine and five-speed overdrive transmission standard.

A new 2600 cc Silent Shaft MCA-Jet engine (available about November 1) and automatic transmission are optional. The Challenger has many personal touches and fine detailing appreciated by the sportsminded buyer.

A LUXURY COUPE THAT OFFERS MORE THAN THE MERE ILLUSION OF HIGH PERFORMANCE.

INTRODUCING THE BMW 630CSi.

This year, the Bavarian Motor Works of Munich, Germany will manufacture less than four thousand BMW Coupes for the entire world.

Yet, what makes it exceedingly rare among the world's luxury coupes is that while all affect the racy lines and the trappings of the true GT car, the BMW 630CSi truly is one.

While the 630CSi features as lengthy a list of luxury items as one could reasonably require of an automobile—supple leather, full-power accessories, etc.—it provides a driving experience so unusual, so exhilarating that it will spoil you for any other car.

BENEATH ITS LUXURY IS A CAR WORTH OWNING.

If the Bavarian Motor Works is known for anything, it is superb, innovative engineering. And the BMW 630CSi is a direct reflection of this cache of engineering intelligence.

Its suspension—independent on all four wheels—is quick and clean through the corners; its steering sharp and accurate.

Its four-speed manual transmission (automatic is available) slips precisely into each gear. And its acceleration comes up smoothly, with the turbine-like whine so characteristic of the justifiably renowned 3-liter BMW engine.

SUPERB ENGINEERING SHOULDN'T BE CONFINED TO A CAR'S MECHANICAL PARTS.

Traditionally the domain of the stylist, the interior of the BMW 630CSi—while rife with creature comforts and complete in every sense—is ergonomically engineered to the nth degree. All seats are orthopedically molded; both front seats are infinitely adjustable.

Controls are within easy reach and all instruments are instantly visible in an innovative three-zone control panel that curves out toward the driver in the manner of an airplane cockpit.

SERVICE AS EFFICIENT AND RELIABLE AS THE CAR ITSELF.

An automobile as thoroughly engineered and meticulously constructed as the BMW 630CSi deserves competent, reliable servicing.

W[illegible] it would certainly be inaccura[illegible] claim perfection, it is nevertheless a fact that no more com[illegible]e or innovative a technical training program exists in the automotive business than the one BMW mechanics are required to attend on a regular yearly basis.

And this human wisdom combined with the inhuman perfection of costly computerized equipment assures rapid routine servicing, perfect engine tuning and accurate diagnosis of any impending problem.

If you'd care to judge the BMW Coupe for yourself, simply phone your BMW dealer and he'll arrange a thorough test drive for you at your convenience.

The wagon will not be offered for sale until the first of the year, while the other Colt models will be available about October 1.

Aspen

Aspen receives new front and rear end styling for 1978. Aspen, available in the sporty 2-dr. coupe, 4-dr. station wagon, will be offered in a single series in 1978 but with a wide variety of interior and exterior trim packages. Buyers will have added flexibility in picking, mixing and matching base, custom and premium interior and exterior trim packages.

For the sports-oriented buyer, the Aspen coupe will offer "R/T," "Sport Pak," "Super Coupe," and "Street Kit Car" packages.

Diplomat

Diplomat, introduced in May 1977 in 2-door and 4-door models, will offer an elegant station wagon for 1978. The Diplomat wagon is a four-door, six-passenger vehicle built on the standard 112.7 inch Diplomat wheelbase. Since the body has not been extended as in most regular and intermediate wagons, the Diplomat wagon's quiet ride and comfort is much like that of the Diplomat sedan.

Magnum XE

Magnum XE, Dodge's specialty intermediate for 1978, has the dramatic styling and flair of an automotive trend setter. Magnum's modern, aerodynamic appearance begins with its dual rectangular headlamps that are shielded by transparent, retractable covers. Built on a wheelbase o 115 inches, Magnum is designed to handle like a true road car.

Monaco

The intermediate-size Monaco for 1978 offers buyers a fall line of appealing personal and family cars combining the comfort and features of regular-size models. The 2-door hardtop and 4-door sedan will be available as standard Monaco models and also in the mor luxurious Monaco Brougham. The Monaco station wagon will be available in both two and three-seat configurations and in a base Monaco or top-of-the-line Monaco restwood version.

The full-size Royal Monaco models have been discontinued for 1978.

Charger SE

Charger SE, Dodge's luxury intermediate, remains an integral part of the Dodge lineup for 1978. Charger SE will feature new interior treatments and a host of new exterior colors. For fresh air and sunshine, Charger SE can be ordered with a new power-operated sun roof or the manual T-Bar removable roof panels.

Engineering Improvements

A host of engineering improvements has been incorporated in the 1978 Dodges to aid fuel economy, provide increased reliability and improve comfort and convenience features. These include: a lockup torque converter on most engines equipped with Torque Flite automatic transmissions; new, lighter weight parts that help increse fuel economy; and expanded use of electronics, including the Electronic Lean Burn System.

New Radios

Dodge has three exciting new electronic radios for 1978. Two combine the increasing popular Citizen's Band (CB) frequencies with AM and AM/FM Stereo systems. The third is a revolutionary AM/FM Stereo Electronic Search Tune radio for Charger, Diplomat and Magnum XE models. Controlled by a microprocessor computer, the radio can program 10 stations in its memory and has a fully electronic search mode.

AMC's blitz for Concord

American Motors' elegant new Concord D/L will be cast in the featured role in television and print advertising of the company's 1978 automobiles, Dale E. Dawkins, vice president - marketing group, said today.

The dominant theme in introductory ads for the Concord D/L is "The luxury Americans want. The size America needs."

Initial advertising will be on prime time network television on Sunday, September 18 — one day before public introduction of all 1978 American Motors car lines in dealer showrooms — with 30-second commercials on shows such as Grandstand, Six Million Dollar Man, Disney, Big Event, Sunday Night Movie, and Hardy Boys.

Network television advertising during introduction week includes commercials on Beach Bums and the Monday Night Movie on September 19; Tuesday Night Movie on September 20; Redd Foxx on September 22, and Big Event and Grandstand on September 25.

The network advertising schedule will be augmented by the most extensive spot TV ad schedule in American Motors' history, according to Dawkins. He said spot advertising will account for 31 per cent of AMC's total advertising budget for 1978, compared with only 3 er cent in 1977.

"We are increasing our spot advertising program significantly to focus on markets which have the greatest sales potential for American Motors," Dawkins said.

Major magazine advertising will be launched the week of September 19 in Time, Newsweek, Sports Illustrated and U. S. News & World Reports. The magazine advertising emphasizes that with the Concord D/L "you don't have to pay extra for the luxury of a luxury compact."

During the October - December quarter, American Motors will run multiple insertions on Concord in Newsweek, Sports Illustrated, Time and U. S. News & World Reports.

The magazine schedule also includes Concord ads in Playboy, Outdoor Life, Esquire and New Yorker; Pacer and Gremlin ads in People, Better Homes & Gardens, Good Housekeeping, Ladies Home Journal, McCall's and Family Circle; in Redbook, Ms., Psychology Today, Cosmopolitan and Reader's Digest. The AMX will be featured in Car & Driver and Motor Trend.

In addition, the Concord D/L will be featured in 1,200-line newspaper ads in 100 major markets during the weeks of September 19 and 26, and the full AMC car line will be highlighted in 1,200-line ads in the same markets the week of October 10.

"Our main objective is to generate the highest possible level of consumer awareness of Concord as quickly as possible, and to sustain awareness levels throughout the model year in AMC's most important markets," Dawkins said.

Chevy's best August

Oakland, . — The 143 Chevrolet dealers in the Oakland zone posted strong August passenger car and truck sales to help Chevrolet nationally register its best August in history.

The zone's dealers delivered 4,590 cars and 3,838 trucks during the month for a total of 8,428, according to Luke Barrett, Jr., zone manager. This compared with 4,089 cars and 3,182 trucks sold during August, 1976.

Nationally, Chevrolet dealers sold 198,208 passenger cars and 100,446 trucks during the month for a combined total of 298,654 units. The passenger car total was up 21.5 per cent from a year ago and six per cent ahead of the previous August high of 187,047 in 1974. Truck deliveries for the month were 8.4 per cent ahead of the previous best August recorded last year. It marked the 14th record truck sales month in the past 15 months.

"This record August pacp underscores reports by our dealers of peaked demand for new cars and trucks," Barrett said. "Dealers continue to report a good cleanup of the 1977 models along with a strong advanced ordering of the 1978's." He said that all 1978 cars and trucks are now being delivered to customers with the exception of the new-sized intermediate Malibu and Monte Carlo models as well as the El Camino sport pickup and the Chevette.

Close plant?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An air pollution control agency is trying to shut down the largest cement plant in the western United States.

An abatement order was sought Wednesday to close the Kaiser Cement and Gypsum plant, in the Cupertino foothills south of here, until adequate air pollution control equipment is installed.

Chrysler has a big August

Chrysler Corporation today announced its best August selling rate since 1973 with a 5 per cent increase in car sales for the month and an 11 per cent increase for the final 10-day selling period.

Truck sales established a new high for the month.

R. K. Brown, executive vice president North American Automotive, Chrysler Corporation, said:

"Industry sales rebounded strongly from July giving Chrysler its best daily rate of sales since the industry's benchmark year of 1973.

"Our new Chrysler LeBaron and Dodge Diplomat both showed excellent pace in August continuing to establish their places among the most successful cars ever introduced by Chrysler. Truck sales returned to the record setting performance of the last 18 months, having missed the July mark."

Car sales for the month of August were 114,746 this year compared to 105,069 last year. On a daily rate of sale basis care sales were reported at 4,250 for this August compared to 4,041 last year. There were 27 selling days this year compared to 26 last year.

For the final 10-day period total car sales were reported at 48,681 this year compared to 43,677 last year. The daily rate of car sales for the period was 5,409 this year compared to 4,853 last year. There were 9 selling days in both final 10-day August periods.

Truck sales for the month were reported at 37,184 this year up six per cent over last year's total of 35,231. The daily rate of sale for the month was 1,377 this year compared to 1,355 last year. There were 27 selling days this August compared to 26 last year.

The Toyota Corolla SR-5 Liftback.
Sports car look. Station wagon room.
Built for go and cargo.

The "looker" is built to be a "long-laster" too. Welded unitized-body construction. Steel reinforced doors. Transistorized ignition. It's enough to say that Toyotas are built right to help them stay tight.
In the middle of the Corolla SR-5 Liftback you'll find pure pleasure. Bucket seats that go into more positions than you could imagine. Carpeting door to door. AM/FM radio. Center console/armrest. Tinted glass. All standard, and there's more—see your dealer.
Up front is where the "go" goes. A 1.6 liter hemi-head engine puts out the power. A 5-speed overdrive transmission puts the power on the road. It adds up to sports car go.
Back here is where the cargo goes. Put the liftback up and take your choice—both rear seats down—one rear seat down—or no rear seats down. People or cargo—either way it's a snap with the Corolla Liftback.
TOYOTA
The Toyota Corolla SR-5 Liftback. Just one of 11 Corolla models. Just one of the reasons why we say, "If you can find a better built small car than a Toyota...buy it."

Mobile dental van due here

The "Smilemobile" will be coming to three different locations in the Valley in October and November.

The huge motorhome with painted banners depicting a broad smile actually is a dental office on wheels. The mobile dental examination and referral program carried by the Alameda County Health Care Services Agency is the first dental outreach effort of its kind in the Bay Area.

Anyone using the Smiemobile is first interviewed to determine if they see a dentist regularly. Then they receive a free toothbrush and hear a discussion of good home dental care, followed by an examination of the person's teeth or dentures to see if any dental problems exist.

The Smilemobile is equipped with a mobile telephone to make on-the-spot appointments, if needed, with any of 350 county dentists participati pating in the program.

It is staffed by a dentist and a dental assistant, and usually stays three days at each location.

The Smilemobile will be at Livermore Safeway, 1554 First St., Livermore, Oct. 12-14; Liberty House Shopping Center, 7898 Dublin Road, Dublin (parking lot), Nov. 9-10 and Sprouse-Reitz parking lot, 1755 Santa Rita Road, Pleasanton, Nov. 16-18.

Excellence

East Bay Regional Park District directors Dr. Harold W Howard L. Cogswell of Hayward (left) and William F. Jardin of San Leandro recently accepted an award presented to the district by Abe Rose (center) for the Sports Foundation Inc. The EBRPD was singled out for "excellence in park and recreation management" along with park and recreation agencies in Washington D.C., Tulsa and San Antonio. Dr. Cogswell and Jardin represent the Valley on the EBRPD board.

Don't blame Detroit for all the smog

Air pollution is the biggest environmental problem to be tackled by ABAG's proposed environmental plan, according to San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein, who chairs the 46 - member Environmental Management Task Force of ABAG.

The draft of the environmental plan proposes no less than 18 ways of dealing with it. One of the most important is the controversial suggestion to increase residential building densities to make development more compact with an eye to cutting use of the automobile.

At the meeting of the EMTF Wednesday when the plan was unveiled, San Jose Mayor Janet Gray Hayes said that an even bigger responsibility is held by auto manufacturers. The draft plan ought to remind the public that Detroit has lobbied to weaken car emission standards, said Hayes.

She was rebuffed by a staff member, who said that it's a common misconception to think of Detroit as having all the responsibility. ABAG controls land use planning and changing lifestyles to less dependence on the car can have a big impact, said the staff member.

Other suggestions and their estimated annual costs, either to the public or the private industries involved are : require water - based paints, $6 million, private; use closed systems for storage and transfer of organic liquids, $17 million, private; limit SO2 emiissions to 300 parts per million, $4 million, private; limit sulfur content to .25 per cent of fuel content, $48 million, private; use best available control technology on new and existing sources, $8 million public, $112, million private.

For mobile sources of smog, the plan suggests more stringent exhaust standars, including a 50 per cent reduction below 1977 levels at a cost of $177 million to the private sector; implement inspection and maintainance program for light and heavy duty vehicles, $21 million public, $51 million private; and require heavy duty gasoline exhaust control devices on existing vehicles, $1 million, private.

In the area of transportation controls, ABAG is suggesting increases on bridge tolls, $13 million privately; institution of a parking tax, $6 million private; a parking fee at large shopping centers, $30 million, private; preferential parking for carpools and vanpools, $844,000, public.

Other suggestions include providing additional transit service, $16 million, public; increase bus and carpool lanes and ramp metering, $5 million, public; implement an auto control zone in San Francisco central district to reduce traffic, $121 million, public; provide more ride - sharing services such as jitneys and vanpools, $253,000, public; and develop more extensive bicycle systems, $451,000.

Touchiest part of environmental blueprint will be getting people out of their cars

Plan will hold line on air pollution

BERKELEY — It will be "tough to get people out of their cars and into apartments," but that's the gist of tssociation of Bay Area Governments' proposed pollution - reducing general plan for Bay Area growth, said San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein Wednesday.

Feinstein was talking in her capacity as chairperson of ABAG's Environmental Management Task Force, which passed out copies of a 100 page proposed plan at the Hotel Claremont.

Pollution won't really be cut to acceptable federal and state levels, but a change in lifestyles will keep the environmental quality from getting much worse in the face of an expected population boom in the next 25 years, said Feinstein.

There will be a million more jobs in the nine county Bay Area by the year 2000 and accomdating that population is a big task, she said.

Some of the methods needed to improve the air quality will be higher residential densities, filling in the vacant spaces in urban areas, and more money for mass transit and bicycle trails, said Feinstein.

The supervisor declared the ABAG proposal pioneers in at least one area : it is the first time in the United States that local governments have a plan before them which shows the hard facts and costs for all of the developmental alternatives.

Feinstein made a great point of the notion that the proposed plan would give local governments freedom of choice in planning. They won't have to do the strict bidding of the state and federal governments which hand out grants for such public facilities of sewage treatment plants.

"This plan will give us a cleaner and better environment than Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania," said Feinstein. She meant it as a compliment; Pittsburgh has accomplished a big environmental cleanup program in the past 10 years.

One controversial paragraph in the proposed plan concerned Napa County Supervisor John Tuteur during theEMTF meeting after the press conference yesterday. It said that growth would be encouraged in the North Bay. He thinks his constituents will have a strong reaction to that.

At the other end of the bay, San Jose Mayor Janet Gray Hayes also felt strong concern about the paragraph discussing a growth moratorium n her area.

"Some of my constituents have the notion that a good environment means one where they can find a job," she said.

Some ideas on stopping pollution of SF Bay

The movement to "Save San Francisco Bay" which began more than 10 years ago still needs a push, it is evident from the statements in the draft of the environmental plan issued Wednesday by Association of Bay Area Goverment's Environmental Management Task Force.

Supervisor Dianne Feinstein of San Francisco, who chairs the 46 - member EMTF, made that much clear in her introductory remarks at a press conference.

"The problem in the bay is more complex than it used to be," said Feinstein. "The old problems were easy to identify. Parts of the bay stunk and it was unfit for fishing or swimming. Now we are finding evidence of insidious pollution.

"For example, there has been a high incidence of premature births in harbor seals. The shells of aquatic birds are much thinner. There have been cancer - like growths on mussels.

"The Dungeness Crab has almost disappeared from the bay. It has gone double the cycle now in its reproduction process," said Feinstein.

Surface runoff into the bay and sewer discharges contain toxic heavy metals and synthetic organic compounds whose specific effects are unknown. Action on these problems can't be taken until more is known about them, said Feinstein.

The ABAG draft has a long list of things aimed at cleaning up the bay. One of the key suggestions is to establish a San Francisco Bay - Delta Research Project to monitor water quality, conduct research into specific problems, manage data and report on the state of the bay and delta.

Another notion is to develop additonal requirements for toxic materials discharged to the bay from all sources. Requirements could be set by the Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board after research by the above - mentioned SFBDRP.

There is an estimated $4 million price tag on that suggestion.

Another suggestion is to require marina owners to provide shoreside toilets and pump - out facilities at an estimated cost of $1.5 million. The SFBDRP could monitor the situation and, if necessary, the discharge could be prohibited entirely.

A wider - reaching plan would be to bring all Bay Area sewer treatment plants up to at least secondary treatment level at an annual estimated cost to the public of $230 million. (The Valley would not be affected because its plants already meet or exceed that level of treatment.)

The draft also mentions a $50,000 a year plan for overseeing programs to clean up oil spills.

Market needed for reclaimed wastes

Water and solid waste conservation, two pet topics for environmentalists in the Valley, got more than passing mention Wednesday as part of the Association of Bay Area Governments' suggested environmental plan for the nine county Bay Area.

The plan is proposing such things as developing markets for recycled materials and beginning programs of separation of reusable waste materials at the source. The big problem now, said one staffer, is the fluctuation in the markets for recycled materials. The staff figures an annual public cost of $31,000 will be necessary to work on those problems.

(In the Valley, Livermore and Dublin have recycling centers; Pleasanton Garbage Service offers its customers at - home recycling of metals and glass.)

ABAG also suggests that the cities around the Bay Area follow through on the solid waste management plans now being developed in the Bay Area counties. There are 60 sanitary landfills in the Bay Area now, but many of them are filling up under garbage generation that equates to the volume of the Bank of America World Headquarters every 13 days.

A reduction in the amount of materials put into the garbage can is recommended highly by staff in order to slow the pace of the mountain of garbage.

There are only three sites for handling of radioactive or highly toxic substances; not much is known about these and they bear further study and action, says the report.

Water will be a big need to handle the population expected in the Bay Area by the year 2000. The region is experiencing its biggest drought in modern times, but it also is saving quite a bit through conservation programs, said the ABAG staff.

Just something as simple as installing water - saving devices on plumbing fixtures should save 85 million gallons per day by the year 2000.

But that won't be enough for the whole picture — 41 per cent of the region's water needs is for agriculture, primarily in Solano County. The solution will be to tap new water resources and the cooperation of many water districts will be required, said the ABAG staff.
